HARRY PRESCOTT came within two votes of being freed by a jury from the charge of killing Ralph F. Thompson, whom he found with his wife, Kate Prescott, in his home on February 28. After being out from 4:30 yesterday afternoon, the jurors were ordered by Superior Judge Ellsworth to report this morning at 11:15. They unanimously announced that they had been unable to reach an agreement and were discharged.

The case was continued until next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock when the court will set the time for the second trial. Attorney A. L. Frick, counsel for the defendant, announced that possibly at that time he would petition that his client be released on bail.

Scarcely without exception the ten jurors who held out for acquittal were highly incensed at the alleged obstinacy of Jurors G. F. Calberg and C. A. Brown, one of the two having cast blank ballot on the first count taken after the body retired yesterday. After one of them suggested that a verdict of manslaughter be agreed upon, but the ten men refused to be shaken in their conviction, and after vainly trying to win over Brown and Calberg, decided that further deliberation would be without avail. The jurors with the exception of Calberg and one other who are on a special venue for the next trial, were released.

According to Juror A. A. Atkinson, the matter stood from beginning to end, ten to two.

"In the first ballot either Calberg or Brown cast a blank to feel out the rest of the men. It was as if the jury was on trial instead of Prescott,

Police Make Search for Missing Oakland Girl

Search is being made in the bay cities for Ida Buhman, a 16-year-old girl who disappeared Thursday evening from the residence of Mrs. Randal, 2509 Twenty-eighth avenue. It is feared that the girl has fallen under the influence of designing persons and that some harm may come to her.

Ida Buhman was employed by Mrs.

Randal as a domestic. The girl left the house without explanation to Mrs. Randall as to where she was going shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday evening. She has not been seen since. The police have given the following description: Height, 5 feet 5 inches; weight, 140 pounds; dark complexion, hair and eyes brown; wore navy blue serge suit, white straw hat and white canvas shoes.

Ice Prevented Vessels From Reaching the Titanic

NEW YORK, April 27.—A wireless message received today by the White Star Line from the cable ship Mackay-Bennett announced that eighty more bodies of the 219 found at the scene of the Titanic disaster by the Mackay-Bennett and the Minia had been identified. Frank D. Millet, the artist, who accompanied Major Butt on his trip abroad, is among the dead picked up by the Mackay-Bennett. His name appears on the list of identified dead sent in by wireless today.

SCORES WAIT AT HALIFAX TO CLAIM DEAD TAKEN FROM SEA

HALIFAX, April 27.—Documents giving verdicts of "accidental death" were prepared here today in readiness for the coroner's jury, which will inspect the bodies of the Titanic's dead now on their way here on board the cable ship Mackay-Bennett. The names of the drowned will be filled in later, in cases where names can be ascertained.

Stone cutters were set at work today inscribing a number of headstones which will mark the graves of those bodies unidentified or unclaimed, which will be buried in Halifax cemetery.

The Mackay-Bennett will not arrive here until Monday, according to a wireless from the steamship received hero today. It was signed Mackay-Bennett, and was as follows:

CONFIRM bodies of Astor and Straus on board. Due Monday with 789 bodies.

As 205 bodies have been picked up by the Mackay-Bennett it is assumed that sixteen were so mutilated that burial at sea was necessary. Fourteen bodies were recovered by the cable ship Minia.

The White Star Line officials persist in their refusal to admit to the cable ship Minia.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 27.—Six weeks ago a body, identified as that of W. E. Wofford, was sent from Fort Worth to Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mr. Wofford accompanied the body as that of his son and collected life insurance. Today a man walked into the undertaker's shop to see the corpse and had prepared for shipment. He declared a "mistake had been made" and that he was the real Wofford. Letters addressed to Wofford were found on the body, but Wofford explained this by saying he had lost a coat containing several letters from his wife.

Haste Made in Effort to Rescue
American Refugees in Western Mexico

Women Nurses to Be Included in Ship's Quota; Situation Is Grave.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The United States army transport Buford, which received orders from Washington yesterday to sail to ports on the west coast of Mexico and take aboard American refugees, will leave port early Monday noon. This date was decided upon by army officials today as the earliest possible moment at which the ship could be put in readiness.

The Buford was sent to drydock today and the work of fitting the transport for the voyage is being rushed by an emergency crew of mechanics. Captain Frank E. Healy will be in command and the ship will carry a full quota of doctors and nurses. It has been decided to take a number of women nurses, if this plan is sanctioned by Washington, on account of the certainty that a large number of the refugees are women.

SAVES MANY LIVES.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Two of the five Americans who recently repelled the attack of the bandits on the American Hacienda, Quimichio, on the Singla-Tropic border in Mexico, saving eight women and children by walking twenty miles and escaping in canoes to Teacapan, were Chicagoans.

They were Thomas Stimson, 20 years of age, and Guy L. Jones, 21 years old. Stimson left Chicago for Mexico last October and Jones has been employed there as a teacher for two years. The last letters received by the families of the men were posted at Quimichio, April 12.

In the letter dated April 12, Guy L. Jones said the form of government was everywhere present but the substance was lacking.

"The sacking of a ranch will be reported to the local magistrate," he wrote. "The magistrate will go through all the forms of getting a description of the bandits and file complaints against them, report it to the next town and so go through all the red tape, but when it came down to the hunting of the men the police would look every place but where the men are likely to be found."

AUTHORITY LACKING.

Jones, who is a Harvard graduate, wrote that "there is no authority anywhere to enforce the laws."

In the Madre revolution about 500 of the 2000 men on the hacienda joined the revolutionary forces and took of weapons and horses which had been secreted. The revolutionaries returned after one visit to the place and destroyed the weapons and drove off the horses. The hacienda contains 50,000 acres and is owned by a Los Angeles syndicate.

JIMENEZ, Mex., April 27.—Fifty federal troops under Lieutenant de la Roche, comprising the garrison of the town of Guadalupe y Calvo, have joined the rebel cause and will join the forces at Parral tomorrow.

ORGANIZATION OF CONVENTION, TOPIC

Subject Is Dropped by Democratic Committee, Fearing Sentiment.

BALTIMORE, April 27.—The question of the temporary organization of the Democratic national convention here next June was brought up at the meeting of the national committee's sub-committee on arrangements today but it was dropped when Chairman Mack argued that the selection of temporary officers now might create the impression that the committee was seeking to organize the convention in the interest of a particular candidate.

Colonel John T. McGraw of West Virginia brought up the question. He proposed the selection of U. S. Senator O'Gorman of New York as temporary chairman; Urey Woodson of Kentucky, secretary of the national committee as secretary pro-tem, and Colonel John J. Martin of Missouri, sergeant-at-arms of the national committee as temporary sergeant-at-arms of the convention.

Every Effort Made to Protect Employees From All Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO April 27.—The South Pacific Company has entered upon a vigorous campaign for the increasing of the safety of its passengers and its employees. Special signs have gone up and more wooden crosses shall be constructed. Special slate levers have been provided for the coupling of cars so that any two cars may be disconnected without the brakeman getting between and endangering his life. All of the cars are now equipped with automatic couplers so that it is not necessary for the brakeman to be even near the cars, the impact causing them to couple.

Meetings are held regularly at all important points between the employees and officials and new methods of operation that provide for the safety of the trainmen and passengers are discussed. Additional block signals are being installed at all stations and accidents are expected will soon be a thing of the past. Other safety devices that will benefit both the passenger and the employee are being investigated and installed if found feasible.

DEFIES TEACHERS, BUT WEEPS BEFORE JUDGE

Eleven-Year-Old School Truant Promises to Return to His Lessons

When the juvenile court opened under presiding Judge F. B. Ogden yesterday afternoon there was a bevy of pretty girls present from a fashionable Berkeley school, who were interested spectators, while the young offenders were taken before the court.

Willie Tezoz, 11 years old, was up before the court and probation officers for playing truant. It was made plain to the court by Tezoz's parents that he had a truant record, and the defendant was asked if he had remained away in the short period of three months he had been a student seven times. His home conditions were conducive to good school attendance, but the boy replied, preferring to plow.

Tears were streaming down the cheeks of the repentant Willie, and when asked by the court if strenuous measures should be used, and if it would be necessary to have him away from home, Willie was indeed a sorrowful specimen of childhood.

It was stated that Willie had shown disrespect to all forms of discipline, and had this month run away and become a tramp and entered a house and helped himself to various pieces of jewelry which had caught his eye.

When asked by the court why he had stayed out of school, Willie said he loved to play, but in the future he would be a better boy and go to school. Having obtained this promise the court placed the lad on probation, and was allowed to go home.

TELLS TROUBLES TO COURT

Elmer Jacovitski, a rambunctious man had a deep gash to pour out before the court. He had procured a warrant and the arrest of young Almsey Smith for breaking the ones he had, and was transferred to the juvenile court. According to the evidence of Jacovitski, he had been attacked with a piece of iron which had been thrown into his wagon by another boy.

In giving his testimony, Jacovitski talked very rapidly and excitedly, and said:

"Hit me on the head and shoulders, then take him at me, then the gun, then I was afraid he would kill me hitting me right in the stomach, so I run away."

According to the evidence which was given by Mr. W. Stewart, the employer of young Smith, it was known that the trouble had been occasioned by profanity used by Jacovitski in reprimanding the boy for throwing the iron into his wagon and breaking it, as he claimed, to get away.

Harry Smith admitted that Jacovitski had used "cuss words" and yelled his head off, and had "run down" the street walking the whole neighborhood "hollering" as he was killed just before Smith got home.

When Jacovitski was asked if he had used swear words, he misunderstood the court and put up his right hand. When the question was repeated more to his understanding he hit the hand up in turn and admitted that he had used the language of which he was accused after he had been wounded with a piece of iron.

The court reprimanded Jacovitski for profanity and remanded him, saying it was not fit for a boy to use such language before women. He was also reminded that he was the law breaker for being or the premises and quarreling with the defendant as he was.

The boy again continued to continue in the hall when Jacovitski, and young Smith left the court room, but no blows were struck.

UP FOR ROBBERY.

The case of 16 year old Carl Stanley was one that seemed to deserve the stiffer treatment of the law, but the court pursued the only course to be chosen under the circumstances.

Raised in the Boys and Girls Aid Society, Nursery of San Francisco until he was 14 years of age, when he was placed in the Aid Society proper, Carl had been considered a fairly good boy and had never shown any disposition to dishonesty.

He had been up before the probation court charged with having stolen a bicycle, money and various other articles.

Admitting that he had taken the things the boy could only show shame and remorse over the theft.

Some time ago he was injured by an automobile and was taken into the home of Mrs. E. H. Tolson who had been in the automobile at the time of the accident. He had received a fracture of the skull when injured, and it is possible that the injury may be the cause of compression on the brain which is causing the criminal tendency such as has been reported since given a good home with the Tolsons.

Judge Ogden made plain to the boy the point of respecting the rights of person and property, pointing to the fact that the boy had been injured and it would lead to a final outcast.

For this reason the court was taking charge of his immediate future.

Carl was given a chance to make amends for his conduct, and was given a good home with the Tolsons.

After court, Judge Ogden explained to a TRIBUNE representative that it was the aim of the court which included the attorney, the judge, the lawyer and the jury to give him a second chance.

With the assurance that it would not be long before Carl could build up his character by trying, he was awarded to the custody of the Boys and Girls Aid Society.

Almonds—The present indications are that almonds will be from 60 to 100 percent larger than last year's crop.

Apricots—In the majority of counties the apple crop promises to be larger than last year.

Apricots—The apricot situation seems to have improved since last month. Last year's crop will probably be equal to or exceeded.

Cherries—Early shipments are now being made, and this year will probably be equal to or exceed last year's crop.

Grapes—The grape outlook still continues good, except that some frost damage has been noticed.

Peaches and Pears—All indications, except a possible lack of moisture, point to a good crop for both fruits.

Plums—Considerable complaint has been received that Japanese plums have not set properly. Other varieties promise well.

Prunes—Complaints of a heavy crop have been noted, but the outlook for a large crop is still good.

ALLEGED DISCRIMINATION IS CAUSE OF PROTEST

Protesting against alleged discrimination on freight rates to different parts of Oakland over the lines of the Southern Pacific, the freight committee of the manufacturers of the chamber of commerce have written the state board of railway commissioners asking that body to take action against the discrimination.

The railroad, according to the committee members, agreed when its last franchise was granted on November 7, 1910, that all rates from outside points to points within the corporate limits of Oakland should be the same. The committee alleges that in spite of this, rates to points in East Oakland and the annexed district are greater than to the center of Oakland. The matter has been taken up with the local representatives of the road but they declare themselves helpless in the matter and assert the board of commissioners is the sole authority for change in rates.

Childs Frick delivered a political address before the woman's City Club of Sierra Madre. She went over the records of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt and expressed confidence that on the facts developed the women of Southern California would certainly vote for the Wisconsin senator for president.

CLUBMAN IS SENT TO ASYLUM AS INEBRIATE

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—Senator La Follette opened the second day of his southern California tour this morning with an address before the men law students of the University of Southern California.

Mrs. La Follette spoke before the women students of the same department. Senator La Follette reiterated a statement made in his auditorium speech last night he would go to the Republican convention at Chicago next June holding the balance of power, and that unless Taft was nominated he would be nominated.

FRICK PARTY REPORTED SAFE IN ABYSSINIA

ADIS ADEBA, April 27.—Childs Frick and his party are now south of Lake Abaya, Margherita. All are in good health and having a good time. The party consists of the following Childs Frick of Pittsburgh, Dr. Black of California, Colonel Mearns of Washington, Dr. Rafferty of New York, Bradley and about sixty-five Americans.

Childs Frick is on an Arvissian scientific expedition and intended to make a present to the National Museum at Washington and other museums of specimens of natural history.

Dr. Love, American consul-general, at Adis Adeba, has been in constant communication with the party since it left, and learns that good sport has been enjoyed among the big game.

President Arthur E. Miller of the club has secured Charles Mifflin Hammond of San Francisco, the leader of the Taff forces in California; former Congressman Ralph D. Cole of Ohio, whom the Taff people claim is entitled to consideration from California in having voted for San Francisco in the exposition fight; Joseph Scott of Los Angeles and Mrs. Abbie Krebs of San Francisco.

SACRAMENTO TAFT MEN MEET TONIGHT

SACRAMENTO, April 27.—Several notable speakers have been secured by the Taft Club of Sacramento to address the public meeting which will be held this evening here.

President Arthur E. Miller of the club has secured Charles Mifflin Hammond of San Francisco, the leader of the Taff forces in California; former Congressman Ralph D. Cole of Ohio, whom the Taff people claim is entitled to consideration from California in having voted for San Francisco in the exposition fight; Joseph Scott of Los Angeles and Mrs. Abbie Krebs of San Francisco.

OREGON DELEGATION TO SUPPORT PRESIDENT

PORTLAND, Oregon, April 27.—While the Oregon delegation to the national Republican convention will be bound by the Taff nomination, it is now practically certain that Taff men will control the delegation. Although State returns are not yet complete, it is generally understood that Taff supporters, and other Phil Madsen and C. Updegraff, both Taff supporters, will probably land the sixth place necessary for a majority of the delegation.

While many members of the delegation say they will follow the popular vote, the Taff majority will be able to elect the national committeemen and to select the representative to help frame a platform.

The Worth of Idora Park to Oakland.

The people of Oakland do not appreciate what a valuable asset Idora Park is to this community. If they did they would patronize it more generously. As it is, the park would be compelled to close up but for the sustaining patronage that comes across the bay from San Francisco.

As a pleasure park Idora has no superior, scarcely an equal, in the whole United States. It is a beautiful place and affords a great variety of amusements and recreations—and they are all clean, healthy and wholesome. Everything savoring of indecorum or immorality is rigidly excluded by the management, the aim being to conduct the park so that women and children will not come in contact with anything of a degrading or suggestive character. No bar is maintained on the premises. Beer and light wines are served in the restaurant, but only to guests who order food. Strong liquors are not dispensed at all, and no unseemly conduct or excessive drinking is permitted.

If the management conducted the park along the free and easy lines that characterized the Chutes in San Francisco they would make money hand over fist. But they have adopted the policy of conducting the resort entirely free from objectionable features. They will not permit public dancing in the pavilion and the sale of intoxicating drinks. They resort to no questionable expedients to make a profit. Hence Idora Park is a delightful place for men to take their wives and children for an outing.

Free concerts are given every afternoon and evening by the best bands procurable. Performances of the best class are given in the theatre at popular prices. For several years seasons of opera have been given by standard companies at prices far below the charges made by the regular theatres. Idora has been giving the best opera at the lowest price of admission to be had anywhere in the country. This is no small thing to say. But it is nevertheless true that through the liberality and enterprise of the Idora Park management it has been possible for the Oakland public to hear standard operas well sung and well staged for the trifling sum of fifty and seventy-five cents a seat.

But this is not all that can be said in favor of Idora. A great variety of amusements are provided for both children and grown-ups. The grounds are improved with taste. There are lawns for children to romp on, and flowers in profusion, also an interesting collection of animals. Taken as a whole, the place is a credit to the city and to the men who are trying the experiment of running a popular amusement park with everything of a vicious or demoralizing character eliminated. Every person from abroad expresses surprise and admiration at the beauty and order of the place, and the number of the attractions presented. They all agree that nothing so good and clean can be found elsewhere.

But unfortunately the people of Oakland do not appear to fully appreciate the efforts of the park management to provide them with recreations at once so novel, so wholesome and so unobjectionable at such a moderate cost. They will have themselves to blame if the project shall prove a financial failure. If the Idora Park should close up for lack of patronage, this city will sustain a well-nigh irreparable loss. It will be many years before another so convenient of access, so adorned and attractive to lovers of good music will be supplied. Every property owner in the city is interested in seeing that the park is properly supported, and in maintaining its present high standard.

The campaign now in progress in Berkeley illustrates the beauties of the recall. The community is all torn up over the question of whom the Board of Education shall elect Superintendent of Schools. It is not claimed that the majority of the board propose to do anything corrupt or unlawful, but that they do not intend to re-elect the present Superintendent, who is popular and has many friends. Accordingly an effort is being made to recall the School Directors and elect others who will retain Mr. Bunker. If the selection of a School Superintendent is to be determined by popular vote, much trouble and expense could be avoided by amending the charter so as to make the office elective.

The Sacramento Union is greatly elated because Bryan spoke against Harmon and in favor of Wilson in Ohio. If his efforts to boost Wilson in the Buckeye State met with no better success than they achieved in Nebraska, the pedagogic candidate will have reason to exclaim: "Save me from my friends!" Despite the exertions of Bryan, Wilson was at the bottom of the poll in Nebraska. Corrected returns from 880 precincts show that Clark received 14,031 votes, Harmon 11,241 and Wilson 9860.

The Big Ship and the Big Disaster.

There is no reason to believe the loss of the Titanic will discourage building large steamships. The size of the ship was in no wise responsible for the disaster. In all probability a smaller vessel would have gone to the bottom quicker than the Titanic. If size counted for anything at all, it counted in the Titanic's favor.

The lesson of the disaster is not that the ship was too large or improperly constructed, but that there is no such thing as an unsinkable ship. It is not possible to build a ship large enough and staunch enough to ride down an iceberg at sea. As well expect to drive her through a granite mountain. Apparently the officers navigating the Titanic were under the impression that she could buck an iceberg with impunity. That is why they were not at all apprehensive when warned that they were in the immediate vicinity of icebergs. So supreme was their confidence in the ship that they did not think there was any real danger.

While the officers of the Titanic underrated the danger of collision with icebergs and overrated the staunchness of the ship, nothing as yet developed to indicate that the size of the vessel had anything to do with causing the disaster beyond the overweening confidence she inspired in her officers. The larger a ship is the more passengers she carries, hence the magnitude of the disaster was proportioned to the size of the vessel. But in general the Titanic appears to have answered the expectations of the men who designed and built her.

It is reasonable, therefore, to expect that the steamship companies will continue to build ships of the same class. For many years after the Great Eastern was built it was confidently asserted by mariners and shipbuilders that no other ship of her dimensions would ever be built. They said she was too large to be successfully navigated or profitable. Today there are a dozen ships larger than the Great Eastern regularly crossing the Atlantic. The Great Eastern would be dwarfed by the Mauretania and Lusitania, the George Washington, the France or the Olympic. Of course there is a limit to the size of ships, as there is to everything under the sun, but there is no reason to believe the safety limit was exceeded in building the Titanic.

No, dearly beloved, Taft did not kick the Colonel's hat. But he landed on the Colonel's crupper in fine shape.

SUBSTITUTE?

Make Oakland the City Beautiful.

A society has been organized to make Oakland the City Beautiful. There is great need of a vigilant, energetic and public-spirited organization having for its object the adornment and beautification of the city—an organization that will educate, mould and direct taste and public opinion. The disfiguring of the principal thoroughfares with additional poles and wires proves the necessity for such a society as has been organized. The billboard nuisance has reached audacious proportions and needs to be checked, if it cannot be abated, by an organized public sentiment.

Nature has done a great deal to make Oakland beautiful, but man has done his best to make it unsightly. Human greed and selfishness have marred nature's handiwork in many places and have done their best to nullify the efforts of the municipal authorities to adorn the city. There is work to do in every direction—trees to be planted, nuisances to be abated and unsightly places to be cleaned up and beautified. In doing this necessary work the municipal authorities should be urged, encouraged and aided by an aggressive public opinion, mobilized for the purpose and directed with intelligence and tact.

The building and grounds of the Southern Pacific at Fourteenth and Franklin streets present a striking and disagreeable contrast to the Berkeley station of the same company. At Berkeley the station is an ornamental structure and the grounds surrounding it are improved with taste. Grass and flowers make it a beauty spot. At Fourteenth and Franklin streets the aspect is positively disgraceful—old wooden shacks and a barren square uncared for and wholly without ornamentation of any kind. And this in the very heart of the city. We are confident that this condition will be remedied if the proper representation be made to the officers of the company by the municipal authorities and the leading citizens of Oakland.

It is worth a trial. But that is not the only place demanding attention. There are dozens of places where good work can be done, and should be done. It is high time a beginning should be made, and the organization of the society for the City Beautiful is the initial move in the right direction.

The expected has happened. The Colonel has answered Taft by posting him for the Ananias Club. It is Roosevelt's practice to call every man a liar who tells the truth about him. His next play will be to call the President an undesirable citizen.

Phil Francis of the Stockton Mail wants to renew the Shakespeare-Bacon controversy. Evidently he desires to involve his contemporaries in a never-ending gabfest. Brother Francis relishes a joke, but there is no reason why the initiated should go sniping to please him. He will have to get his fun some other way. He would do better joshing the holy rollers or spend his leisure moments ciphering out who struck Billy Patterson or where Tony hid the wedge. If he is sincere about this Bacon foolishness he is past argument, and if he is merely fooling he is up to some devilment for his own amusement. He's a snare and a delusion, as the brethren of the press will find out if they play at his peacock-shell game. We suspect that his partiality for Bacon arises from the early fondness he acquired for hog and hominy.

No, dearly beloved, Taft did not kick the Colonel's hat. But he landed on the Colonel's crupper in fine shape.

DISSECTING THE HEROES

Why is it that the investigators of history will not permit even the best established heroes of the world to rest in peace? What kind of a passion is it that leads them forever into questions of what cereals Julius Caesar ate for breakfast and what kind of dress Cleopatra wore at afternoon tea? The only reasonable answer to those questions is furnished by the fact that most human beings are a little jealous. They are not willing that we should have our heroes without any thought of their possible vanities. They insist that all our heroes must have feet of clay.

We should really prefer to think that George Washington told merely the plain, unvarnished truth when he said he cut down the cherry tree. We do not like to think that he was boasting about it. It is also very disappointing to be told, as we have been recently, that Napoleon was a fat old fellow, more like a roly-poly Beau Brummell than the hero of many wars.

It also appears that Napoleon was a "tight-wad," as the popular saying goes. His habit of cutting down bills submitted to him was so well known that his tailor always put the bill for repairs pretty high so as to leave plenty of leeway for purposes of compromise.

But after all, these matters do not change history in the slightest degree, and they do not lessen the achievements of Napoleon. It is immaterial whether he was fat or lean when met the late Lord Wellington at Waterloo. It is also unimportant whether he used a straight blade or a safety razor.

The tendency to judge heroes by the kind of clothes they wore and by their table manners seems, however, to be as inevitable as the suffragette movement—Washington Post.

NEW CRIME DETECTOR

If an invention recently offered to the Paris police authorities proves a success the telegraph must be content with a back seat. It is proposed to develop the moving picture idea so as to provide for the continuous operation of cinematograph machines from clock towers and other elevated places at street corners, all the thoroughfares thus being under the watchful eye at all times of mechanical contrivances whose testimony would be above suspicion. No accident could occur without photographs of it being obtained, and in order to determine beyond all question of doubt just how the disaster came about, and where the blame should be placed, it would be necessary only to develop the films, and reproduce the scene in the usual nickel theater manner.

Realizing that their actions were ever being scrutinized by a camera safely out of their reach, which would give to the police photographs by which their identity could be established, criminals would be unable to take chances, with all the odds against them, and, in the opinion of the originator of the idea, would be driven out of business.

Just how the cinematographs would work at night, when footpads and thugs are usually buster, is not disclosed. However, the scheme looks like a good one, and something of the kind may soon be a part of every municipal equipment.

Judge Graham's Rival

Judge Graham of San Francisco has a rival in Judge Goodwin of Chicago, who gives good advice, from the bench, to culprits seeking divorce. In a recent maintenance suit, a Chicago husband asserted that his wife frequently remained out late at night, and that he didn't like it. The wife said she remained out because her husband was never home. The Judge said: "I don't blame a woman for running around and enjoying herself if her husband persists in leaving her alone at night. Neglect of wives is one of the principal reasons for domestic discord. I don't believe a woman should keep a man penned up all the time, and few women are inclined to do so. There is, however, plenty of time for a husband to enjoy himself without leaving his wife alone at night. A man should stop and think of the lonely lives women lead with their husbands away all day, and again the greater part of the night."

Some of our most noted clubmen might ponder with profit these wise remarks of the Chicago Solomon. If judges generally adopt such progressive views of woman's equality, it may not be pleasant for them to be cited to appear in the divorce court to give reasons why they should not give fifty per cent of their incomes in alimony to their neglected spouses.—The Wasp.

Cartridges and Love

One beautiful day last summer a handsome young hunter dropped in at Tau Tavern. He had been shooting over the adjoining country, and had good sport and hoped for more. But a day or two at the Tavern appealed to him as a pleasant relaxation from his strenuous pursuit of game. There were lots of pretty girls at the Tavern, and the young hunter rejoiced in their company. One in particular took his eye and his attention. He spent a good deal of time in her company. When he was leaving he told the girl that he was going to leave a lot of cartridges at the Tavern as he would be back that way in a few days and didn't want to be unnecessarily encumbered. The girl liked the idea. "Yes, I hope you leave most of your cartridges here," she said. "Why?" asked the young and handsome hunter. "Because," she answered, "if you leave them you'll be sure to return; and the more you leave the sooner you'll come back." The young hunter came back. And the sequel of this story came the other day when Bessie Parsons was married at Mill Valley to Dan Turner. As you have guessed, Bessie Parsons was the pretty girl at Tau Tavern and Dan Turner was the young and handsome hunter. Young Turner belongs, on his mother's side, to the well known and wealthy Ortiz family.—Town Talk.

Smart Diamonds and Adorable Troussseau

To be considered strictly up to date and fashionable these days, one must have as many pieces of jewelry set in platinum as the purse will allow. The smart set has set the stamp of its approval on platinum, and most of the game worn at smart set functions have the white metal for setting. The engagement ring which Sammy Hopkins presented to his affianced bride consists of diamonds set in platinum. A large stone is surrounded by smaller stones that are clustered half way about the circle of platinum. And apropos of this, I am reminded that Mrs. Wellington Gregg and her two daughters, End and Ethel, are hurrying on from Paris and are expected to arrive here the early part of May. The cause of all the hurry is, of course, due to the fact that the fascinating End is to officiate as chief bridesmaid at the wedding of her chum, Miss Schultz—and then besides she is bringing with her direct from Paris one of the most bewilderling troussau ever seen in San Francisco. No—not for herself—that is, not that I've been told—but for Miss Schultz, who, I have heard, upon her engagement, telegraphed Miss Gregg to go ahead and purchase the complete wardrobe for her—depending entirely upon her taste and discretion. Doesn't that speak volumes for the dashing End? It's a safe bet that the Schulze-Hopkins wedding will be one of the most beautiful ever witnessed in San Francisco. See if I'm not right.—Oakland Observer.

An Aristocratic Nurse

Here's an amusing story told me the other day. The one who related the incident and played a part in the little skit is a young woman whose family across the bay is among the oldest and most aristocratic in that city. Several years ago, after her graduation from one of the fashionable schools for girls in the East and a season or two of "society," this young woman became an extremely serious turn of mind, decided upon spending her time at something worth while, and in consequence entered one of the training schools for nurses, from which school, after the usual number of years, she was graduated with the highest honors. Since graduation she has constantly labored at her chosen work and is considered one of the most capable and efficient members of the profession in San Francisco. But sufficient preliminary. The other day a young son of one of the newly-rich bourgeois members of society was taken ill and a physician was summoned to attend the child. Finding the little fellow in a fever he telephoned Miss Blank (the young woman who told me the story), and being unable to communicate with her at the moment, left her name and telephone number with the child's mother, telling the anxious parent he'd rather have Miss Blank than anyone else to handle the case—if disengaged—but left the names and telephone numbers of several other young women, in the event of her not being able to procure Miss Blank. In the course of half an hour or so the lady succeeded in getting the young woman at the home of a friend, whether she had gone after having just been released from a long and most stubborn case. She was feeling tired and ill and decided that she'd rest up a bit before going on another case, when the telephone rang, and Mrs. Newly-Rich on the other end. And this was the conversation that took place: "Hello! Miss Blank?" "Yes." "Well! In a tone abrupt and commanding, this is Mrs. N. R. speaking. My young son is ill and Dr. E., whom I summoned, has recommended you for the case. Come at once, please." "I am terribly sorry, Mrs. N. R., but I am feeling ill myself and am not able, under the circumstances, to take your case. Did not Dr. E. leave with you the names of one or two other young women whom you may procure?" (Enter voice denoting both surprise and indignation). "Do I understand you correctly, Miss Blank? Are you telling me that you are refusing the case of my child? You say I am hearing correctly! But pardon me, do you know who is speaking? This is Mrs. N. R. of—Umpqua Ump avenue. I can scarcely believe that you realize who is summoning you. If you did, I am quite sure you would not have the temerity to refuse to come. At any rate, I shall report you to Dr. E. and make it my business to see that other physicians are told of your behavior!" And the best part of the story is that just a few years before the fire the husband of Mrs. Newly-Rich—who four or five years ago accidentally struck it rich in some oil investment or other—held one of the most menial positions in the immense establishment conducted by the father of the young woman! Ho-ho-ho! Funny isn't it how ill-breeding, like murder, will out?—Oakland Observer.

A Budding Morgan

Local society is awaiting the return of a very handsome and popular member of the younger set who went to Europe not long ago with her mother. Rumor had it that the delightful trip had been arranged in hopes that the young lady would forget a certain young real estate broker who possessed more friends and good looks than negotiable collateral. He had a college education, too, but even that did not quite convince the girl's father that he would make an ideal son-in-law. To complicate matters, many suitors vied for the hand of the heroine of this narrative. But her choice, despite all allurements, was the stalwart Montgomery street broker. He overtopped them all in her esteem.

Now comes the happy sequel. The young man was sent south on a commission for a leading firm with which he had become connected. He saw a chance to make a quick and profitable turn in real estate, and came back from Los Angeles $30,000 richer. This stroke of good fortune, it is thought, will change the tide of affairs and lead on to fortune so fast that a San Francisco may boasting of a local J. Pierpont before long. Anyhow, the lovely young woman went abroad rather reluctantly in coming home as fast as express trains and ocean liners can bring her, and there may be a very interesting announcement for San Francisco and San Mateo before the gloomy Fourth. The Wasp.

A Token of Sympathy

A pretty tribute of sympathy was paid by Miss Estelle Jacob to her friend Miss Marie Baldwin whose father, Edward Baldwin committed suicide in a fit of despondency caused by ill-health.

Miss Jacob had intended giving tea last Thursday afternoon in honor of that much fated belle, Miss Madeline Cushing, but on learning of the bereavement of her friend she recalled the invitation, declaring she didn't have the heart for merrymaking while her chum was in such great grief. Her older women had the same feeling in their friendships the giddy whirl might cease now and then when trouble comes to those who contribute to its revolutions. But they drop out and the gay round continues without them.—Town Talk.

Honor for Kuhne Beveridge

A new honor has just come to Kuhne Beveridge, the San Francisco girl who took to sculpture and has attained some prominence abroad. For some time now she has had a studio in Munich and has been saturating herself in the artistic atmosphere of that inspiring city. She has just been commissioned to make a bust of the ninety-three-year-old Prince Regent Luitpold of Bavaria. This is not the first commission Kuhne has had from the Bavarian royal family. She has already made busts of several of them, including Prince Ludwig Ferdinand, the celebrated surgeon and violinist.—Town Talk.

Jo Rosborough Confesses to Birthday

On last Saturday evening at the Claremont Country Club, Joseph Rosborough was host at one of the most elaborate dinners of the season. The affair was in the nature of a birthday feast, which feasts the genial Mr. Rosborough has been giving for a number of birthdays back. At the termination of the dinner, during which the jolliest kind of time was had, the guests adjourned to the ballroom, where all joined in the usual dances given at the club each Saturday evening. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunt Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. John Valentine, Miss Elva De Pue, Miss Margaret Moore, Miss Ynez Pischel, Miss Marian Stone, Miss Edith Slack, Miss Ruth Slack, Melville Bowman, Harold Prutch, George Willett, Walter Flush, John Hartigan and Captain Harry Howland, U. S. A.—Oakland Observer.

An Interesting Engagement

An engagement has been announced that will be of interest to all old Californians. Miss Marjorie Belle Allan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Allan of Redlands and a granddaughter of the late William Shieh, the well known capitalist and one of the pioneers of San Francisco, is to be an army bride in the early fall. She will be married to First Lieutenant James A. O'Connor of the Corps of Engineers, one of the most promising young officers in the service. Miss Allan is the niece of Dr. George Franklin Shieh, Dr. J. Wilson Shieh, William Lyman Shieh, Charles H. Shieh and Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Kinloch Johnstone of the army.—Town Talk.

Off to Manila

Mrs. Charles Abbott was among those sailing Wednesday for the Orient where she will visit her daughter Mrs. Delmar Smith in Manila. Mrs. Smith who was formerly Miss Helen Davis is a leader of the smart set in the island capital where her husband has amassed a fortune in business. Her cousin Mrs. Stuart Rawlings, who as Miss Eleanor Warner was the favorite chum of Mrs. Smith has resided in Mexico since her marriage but with her little daughter is at present in San Francisco where she will remain until affairs in the southern republic are in a more settled condition. She was at the dock to bid her aunt Mrs. Abbott farewell when the steamer sailed.—Town Talk.

Women First. Why?

It has been pointed out by a prominent Eastern publication that English suffragettes of prominence, when questioned as to what they thought of the men who died on the Titanic in order that women might be saved, almost represented the idea that the display of chivalry was magnificent. While the strenuous ladies did not deny that the behavior of the men was rather fine, they hinted that, after all, it only fulfilled a plain duty, and therefore had not earned any particularly enthusiastic praise. As one of the suffragettes put the case, by natural law women and children should be saved first, the children because childhood is sacred, and the women because they are so necessary to the race that they cannot be spared. Another said: "It must be admitted that the lives of women are more useful to the race than the lives of men."

Commenting on this, a male critic says: "The statement that childhood is sacred means or might mean so many things that an attempt to discuss it would not be profitable, but the assumption that women are of greater racial value than men is very far from having been or universally admitted in either history or practice. The killing of girl babies at or soon after birth has been the common and unrepented custom of all countries where the general welfare required a keeping down of the population, and it is only in those where it was desirable to increase the population that the equal or superior value of women has been recognized and chivalry and gallantry became characteristics more or less common."

The patroness who told me about it wagged her head solemnly and said: "What can we do about it—they'll all soon hear of the stand some of the doctors are taking, and if we try to stop ragging they'll declare that they are doing it under doctors' orders for heart disease! It's hopeless now!"

Mrs. Vincent Whitney, Mrs. Lansing Kellogg and a number of other young matrons went through a period during their belliedom when they were forbidden to dance, and they should look with kindliest favor on the Rag, which evidently is not under the ban of the medical authorities. I recall that during the time that Miss Ethyl Hager was suffering from a slight affection of the heart and was forbidden to dance, there was a fancy dress ball, and in those days a fancy dress ball without Ethyl Hager was like a flower without perfume. Everyone expected her to appear in startling and original costume, and she never disappointed expectations. This particular time she went as a lady's dressing table, with everything from the not draperies to the electric light candles on each side of the mirror. When her identity was discovered, her physician, who happened to be present, gasped: "Good heavens, have you been packing around all that stuff? Why, dancing would be mild in comparison to walking around with that load!"—News Letter.

The Lesson of the Titanic

The Wasp has already said that the sinking of the Titanic was such a spectacular tragedy that the loss of life appeals to the newspaper reading public as appalling. Yet the public regards with apparent indifference the awful loss of life by crimes of violence.

Over ten thousand murders were committed last year, and the loss of life will be fully as great this year. Only a few murderers, comparatively speaking, have been hanged.

More venomous rage has been directed against the luckless Ismay than against the whole army of murderers that have deliberately swelled the death roll in the United States year by year, till we hold the undisputed record for homicide.

The victims of the crimes of violence were not all slaughtered simultaneously, and for that reason the annual murder crop fails to fill the public with horror. It hardly excites any emotion.

It is lamentable that the indignation of the public, which has reached such extremes on account of the Titanic affair, cannot be occasionally aroused against the ever-increasing tendency to crimes of violence.

They'll All Be Doin' It

Perhaps every one isn't doing it! Doing what? The Rag. But if everyone isn't doing it, they will be soon, according to the committee of censors who attempted to suppress the insidious dance at a ball at the Palace Hotel the other night. It was a near-grow-up affair, the sub-debutantes and the debutantes and, their gallants participating. The dance was given by a Greek letter sorority that has chapters in the most fashionable girls' schools. It was a lovely party, a veritable rosebud garden of girls, and jolly boys who are not so jaded that they want to herd off by themselves and disappear behind a golden nocturne of yellow-gray smoke created by the Havana bands instead of responding to the music of any other band. At this particular party, Alexander's Ragtime Band was taboo, and for a time the young people gilded along to waltz and two step music without succumbing to the temptation to rag.

Then along came a waltz, a teasing, tantalizing waltz, that was enough to make any one with an ounce of rag yeast in the disposition feel disposed to succumb. But the patricesses trained a stern eye on every couple in whom the yeast of the music seemed to be working, and the desire fell flat as a sponge cake exposed to a draught. Just when the patricesses settled back to enjoy themselves, they were startled bolt upright by the spectacle of a couple ragging with all the nonchalance of a pair of refined dance specialists.

Forthwith a dame appointed for the rebuke bore down upon them. In censorious manner she reminded them that "ladies and gentlemen do not rag." Burlingame, et al., take notice. Furthermore, she reminded them that even if some misguided ladies and gentlemen do forget themselves occasionally—Burlingame, et al., please accept apology—"this was no place to do it, and it had been decided beforehand that ragging was not to be permitted at this party."

The girl's eyes filled with tears, her soft little mouth trembled, and it was with the greatest difficulty that she shockingly said, "Then I can't dance at all, because the doctor says that ragging is the only thing that won't injure my heart!" Of course, the stern patricess gasped and otherwise showed that she considered this excuse spurious, but none the less remarkable and original. She took the girl and her escort over to the corner where the patricesses upholstered the background with their handsome gowns. The girl repeated her reason for wanting to dance the rag, and the patricesses were a composite picture of astonishment. Then up spoke one dawager thus: "Why, you brazen little thing, how dare you say such absurdities!" and what she might have said spluttered out in detached syllables, for the girl threw back her head, said, "My mother will tell this with you," and with her escort left the dance.

Prepare for anything now. It is absolutely true that one of the best physicians in San Francisco has decided that ragging is not dangerous exercise, and that heart patients who are forbidden the other dances may indulge in ragging now and then. The young girl had come to the dance with permission not only from her mother but also from her physician to dance just two or three times, and to be sure to Rag!

The patroness who told me about it wagged her head solemnly and said:

"What can we do about it—they'll all soon hear of the stand some of the doctors are taking, and if we try to stop ragging they'll declare that they are doing it under doctors' orders for heart disease! It's hopeless now!"

The Nealon-Henderson Wedding

If plans had not miscarried Percy Henderson and his bride, who was the charming Miss Martha Genevieve Nealon, daughter of J. C. Nealon, the well known capitalist, would have been well off on their honeymoon trip ere their many friends knew of their marriage. But the interesting news that had been kept a secret from reluctance to display and formal social ceremony got out early in the week. Such secrets are hard to keep, especially when they concern people having such a large circle of acquaintances as the lovely bride and popular groom of this instance. A great flutter of interest was occasioned by the news, and Mr. Henderson was kept pretty busy receiving the felicitations of his friends. Mr. Henderson was formerly police commissioner. He is one of our most energetic young captains of industry. The marriage took place Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McQuade, William F. Humphrey acting as best man. After the ceremony an informal reception was held in the Nealon home. Thursday morning the newly wedded pair started on a trip to the East where they will make a short stay and then go to Europe to spend a few months in leisure travel.—Town Talk.

Titanic's Tragedy Bereaves the Van Sants

The Robert W. Van Sant of Berkeley are receiving expressions of sympathy from their many friends over the tragic death on the ill-fated Titanic. Charles W. Hays, who was a cousin of Mr. Van Sant, Mr. Hays, who was president of the Grand Trunk Railroad, was returning to his home in Montreal after a pleasure trip of several months spent abroad in company with his wife, two daughters, and a son-in-law, the latter of whom also lost his life. Mr. Hays was one of the most widely known and best loved railroad men in the United States. For some time he was connected with the Harriman lines of this country, but a number of years ago was appointed head of the Grand Trunk. While his fortune is estimated as being worth from five to ten millions, he was one of the most unostentatious of men—quiet in his tastes and democratic in his manner. He was a most loyal American.

It is said of him that when the late King Edward, during one of his former trips abroad, wished to confer the honor upon him, he refused the honor on the ground that he was too much of an American to accept a decoration from a judge and the courts of law help to increase the enormous murder crop to

DR. D. K. PEARSONS DIES MINUS MONEY

Philanthropist Is Poor, as He Hoped He Would Be, When End Comes.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Dr. Daniel Kimball Persons, ninety-two years old, who in recent years gave more than $7,000,000 to small colleges, chiefly in the Middle West, died yesterday in a sanitarium. Persons had determined to die poor, and he did. Pneumonia, with complications due to old age, was the cause. For several days he had been sinking, a patient in an institution where he maintained himself on an income of $5000 a year paid him by a college to which he had contributed $35,000 on the condition that he would be given 25 per cent of that for the rest of his life.

It was Dr. Persons who declared that "giving away money is a greater sport than baseball and more fun than any other form of entertainment." He began giving money to needy colleges in 1882 and, in sums ranging from $10,000 to $485,000 disposed of more than $7,000,000. His last gift, he said, left him comparatively poor, with an income sufficient to keep him from want. His death defeated his often-expressed expectation that he would live one hundred years.

SELLS HIS HOME.

Recently he sold out his home to go to the sanitarium. The value of the home and an endowment were given for a public library to Hinckley, Ill., his place of residence.

At the age of 91, Dr. Persons gave up a lifelong use of tobacco, minding he said renunciation for reasons of conscience.

Dr. Persons was born in Bradford, Vt. He began practicing medicine in 1842. Coming to Illinois in 1857, he made a fortune buying and selling Illinois farm lands. He was a Chicago alderman in 1876.

His first notable gift was $100,000, to Beloit College, Wisconsin. He gave Beloit in 1880, $6000.

Other donations by him were:

HERE have been very few April weeks in the past in which there have been so many important social dates as in the one just past. For we have had the citizens' dinner, at which nearly four hundred guests were assembled; the large reception in San Francisco to Mrs. Hearst, calling out an attendance of 600 people, and the Ebell Club card party, at which 500 players were in attendance.

The reception to Mrs. Hearst by the women of the Pacific Coast Press Club was beautifully planned, and, as a large number of invitations were sent over here, our side of the bay was well represented in the brilliant audience assembled in honor of Mrs. Hearst. It would need a great ball room like that at the Fairmont to make a fitting environment for so large a crowd of people, for very few regrets are ever sent when the much loved Mrs. Hearst is the guest of honor.

The gold and white ball room was a splendid color scheme; the poppy is the emblematic flower of the club, and great bowls of poppies stood out in startling relief, making brilliant color studies.

Bright rugs were on the floor and laurel trees added a note of strength to the decorations, and the great ball room was like an Oriental garden, as Mrs. Hearst came into it with Mrs. Martin, the president of the Press Club. The reception was scheduled from 4 to 5, but it was long after 6 before the guests departed, so many were the prominent women who accepted the invitation for the reception.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Hearst, Mrs. George Martin, Mrs. Ralph, Mrs. Frank K. Mott, Mrs. L. Lowenberg; Mrs. Laura Pinney and Mrs. W. C. Morrow. One heard on all sides admiration expressed for the very beautiful gowns of the receiving party.

Mrs. Hearst wears for the most part soft grays, and lovely shades of mauve and lavender, and her gown on Monday was most exquisite and very artistic. It was of gray chiffon, hand embroidered in pastel shades, the yoke and sleeves made of beautiful and very rare lace. Her ornaments were of diamonds and pearls, and her costume was completed by a becoming scarf representing a combination of chiffon and ermine. Mrs. Hearst is always charming to everyone. No matter how tired she may be with many business cares, there is always a beautiful, sympathetic interest which makes people presented to her feel that they are welcome in her life.

MEMBERS OF MANY RECEIVING PARTIES

Both Mrs. Ralph and Mrs. Mott are members of many receiving parties lately and they loyally do their share to add to the success of the social affairs they represent. Mrs. Ralph was gowned in white panne velvet, elaborately trimmed in gold and crystal, one of the most beautiful gowns of the afternoon. Mrs. Mott looked exceedingly well in a very handsome gown of old gold satin, the gown made more elaborate with splendid iridescent trimming.

One of the very best writers on the coast is Mrs. I. Lowenberg, whose book, "A Nation's Crime," sent out a great message to the world, and stirred to thought the best people of our country. Mrs. Lowenberg was beautifully gowned in black chiffon, with black lace, and her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Ella Sexton, who has written so well on California subjects, was gowned in white satin, with an overcast of white net. Other handsome gowns were those worn by Mrs. Pinney, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Julia Sanborn, Mrs. Anna Werner Doyal and Mrs. Colburn, who was formerly Francis Euclid Waite. Mrs. Colburn has made a great success in her archaeological work, especially in her study of the North American Indians. She has written delightful books and is a recognized authority on the Indian question. Delightful refreshments were served during the afternoon at small tables, around which were gathered many groups of friends representing charming people.

Among the Oakland guests were:

Mrs. Frank G. Hayes Mrs. Frederick Cutting

Mrs. Oscar F. Long Mrs. Sam Bell Ward

Mrs. Molle Connors Field

Mrs. R. G. Brown Mrs. Annie Austin

Mrs. Edith Everts

Mrs. Frank Havens was a most attractive study, in a perfect costume in tones of black and white. Mrs. Long wore a tailor gown in dark tones, with a wide hat to match the gown, and Mrs. Everts wore a tailored gown of black satin with a most charming hat trimmed in rows.

One of the most becoming costumes and one of the handsomest at the reception was that worn by Mrs. R. G. Brown, whose tailor gown was of royal purple, with a most becoming bonnet also in purple tones. A great bunch of pansies added a finishing touch to the handsome costume.

It has been stated that over 600 people called during the afternoon, the success of the large reception making another beautiful tribute to Mrs. Hearst, the most popular and most beloved of our California women.

MRS. HEARST, HOSTESS AT THE HACIENDA

Mrs. Hearst entertained at the Hacienda this afternoon, receiving many of her friends at her beautiful home near Pleasanton. The cards announced "music" and a special train, starting shortly after 1 o'clock, conveyed the guests to Pleasanton, where they were met by motors and carriages and taken to the Hacienda.

Mrs. Theodore Kielhofer is a well-known local matron who is devoted to outdoor sports, and who possesses some very fine dogs which have won various high honors.

Mrs. Edwin Bray Thorne is a bride who before her wedding was Miss Florence Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Rice, whose hospitable home is in Madison street. She is a sister of Leslie Rice of the Oak Bank of Savings.

The special train from Pleasanton will leave at 6 o'clock this evening, when the happy and fortunate guests

Mrs. Hearst has planned to entertain her friends at two afternoons, the second of which will be given next Saturday.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER

Mrs. Joseph Knowland, wife of Congressman T. P. Knowland, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler, has taken a prominent part in the social life of the bay cities. She is at present in Washington, D. C., where she is being widely entertained.

Y. W. C. A. DINNER IS GREAT SUCCESS

One of the most successful public dinners ever given in Oakland was that of Tuesday evening, given under the management of the Young Women's Christian Association. Over three hundred people were at the dinner, which was the preface for a story of what bids fair to be one of the most notable campaigns in the history of our city.

The decorations were exceptionally beautiful, and were arranged under the express direction of Mrs. F. M. Smith and Mrs. Wallace Alexander.

The center-piece of the large round table at which the guests of honor were seated was made up of tulips, making a wonderful blaze of color. The tulips this year have completely eclipsed the poppies and the chrysanthemums must look to their laurels.

At many of the tables were most artistic baskets filled with lovely roses, each table a pretty picture in fine artistic design. Miss Grace Fisher, president of the Y. W. C. A., presided at the large round table, at which were seated also President David Starr Jordan and Miss Carolyn Patch, both of whom gave very interesting talks.

Miss Fisher's address was scholarly and full of a sweet sympathy that was charming. She outlined the work of the Y. W. C. A. in splendid fashion and evoked even added interest in it, and aroused a splendid enthusiasm, which made the dinner unique in social annals and fine in results.

Miss Fisher compared the Y. W. C. A. building and work to little Cinderella, who has been waiting so long for her new dress. It looks very much now as if Cinderella were to have her gown, for along has come Puffie Interesting, the Prince Charming who is fitting the glass slipper to Cinderella's tiny foot.

Miss Fisher's outline of the work of the association was wonderfully given, showing a careful preparation, and the audience was surprised at the magnitude of the work attempted and at the great good accomplished.

A descriptive pamphlet, containing the menu and much else, was found to be of unusual interest. On the opening page one read from Emerson:

"Women are the civilizers of mankind. What is civilization? Answer: The power of good women."

And on the following page came the quotation from James Bryce:

"No country seems to owe so much to its women as America—to owe to them so much of what is best in its platform, so she cheerfully climbed upon a chair, and poured forth that beautiful voice in a volume of song singing like a glad, free bird.

There is something exquisitely fine in her training, and one feels that no matter how high the notes are, she could still take higher ones if she chose to do so. Her singing the other evening was a generous and kindly act, and her listeners may remember that they have heard one of the leading singers in grand opera, the best singer on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Capwell proved, as usual, a bright and popular toastmaster, and the five-minute speeches of Mayor Mott and others were admirably done, all contributing to a fine atmosphere of enthusiasm, which was the keynote of the evening.

The Spirit of Giving is in the air—

social institutions and in the beliefs that govern conduct."

—James Bryce.

Timon of Athens also lends a quotation:

"They're welcome all; let 'em have kind admittance, music make their welcome."

"What, do we meet together? Ay and I think our business doth command us all."

The menu was specially planned by Mrs. J. Loran Pease and by Mrs. Herbert Dunn, and the general arrangements for the dinner were in charge of Mrs. E. D. York.

MISS MABEL REIGELMAN FEATURE OF PROGRAM.

Miss Mabel Reigelman's beautiful singing was a great feature of the program. Miss Reigelman was accompanied by Mr. Frederick Maurer, and her singing was a surprise to even those who knew what a perfectly wonderful voice she has. The town has gone quite mad over her.

Everyone wants to hear Mabel Reigelman, the little Oakland singer who has won out in grand opera, who is the finest "Gretel" in the world, and who is called "Gretel" by everyone on the operatic stage. She is a wee bit of a maid to have such a wonderful voice, but she has a great generous heart, as well.

There was a little hesitation in asking a grand opera singer to sing for us for nothing. But there need not have been. "I will sing for Oakland, of course," said Mabel Reigelman: "It's my home, and I shall love to sing for other girls."

With cards there is some definite interest, the Prince Charming who is everyone is giving something—and the dream of the new building bids fair to fade with the background of its reality.

Among the many interesting people at the dinner were:

President David Starr Jordan, John Z. Valentine, Mayor and Mrs. Frank Mrs. Charles H. King, K. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Dr. and Mrs. Charles Abrahamson, H. Rowan, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. G. Gilmore, Alexander Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dr. and Mrs. J. Loran Cockcroft, Miss Katherine Eggleston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mr. and Mrs. Giulio Leonard Smith, Miss Mollie Conners Dr. Florence Rylander, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Dr. and Mrs. J. Adams, Miss Eva Powell Mrs. George Klopp, Mrs. and Mrs. Newton Mrs. Margaret Taylor, Mrs. and Mrs. William Edward Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mr. and Mrs. Willard Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Henry, Mr. and Mrs. J. #### EBELL CARD PARTIES WILL BE POPULAR.

The Ebell card party on Tuesday is the second annual date of that kind, and these card afternoons have proved to be such popular affairs that they will no doubt be incorporated in the scheme of events planned for annual functions. Many women like to play cards, and this scheme is far more interesting than a large tea, where nobody has very much to do, except indeed to talk. And that is anything but interesting, especially.

With cards there is some definite interest, the Prince Charming who is and sing she did. There was no amusement, unless in the rare case when you play auction and do not bid all the afternoon.

SOCIETY NEWS OF THE WEEK

Both of the large halls of Ebell had tables for players, and tables were also made ready in the foyer and in the large dressing-room. Groups of friends gathered at tables, and some of the card clubs played together, so that there were games of auction, bridge and five hundred to absorb the attention of guests during the afternoon.

In many cases the hostess at a table brought with her prize, which made the game at her table a trifle more interesting, and for the guests fortunate enough to score "slams," a bunch of sweet peas was the gift of the club.

Refreshments were served by dainty little maids in charming costumes, and the afternoon was one of the most de-arrived on Tuesday, having come directly from London. Of course, there is always a warm welcome home for these popular friends, for many people are very devoted to them. But their welcome is mingled with heartfelt gratitude that they were not on the ill-fated Titanic. They crossed on the Mauretania, sailing about the same time.

A sturdy young grandson was here to greet them on their arrival—the lovely little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton White (Katherine Brown). He is a fine boy, and one hears that the A. L. Whites and the Frank L. Browns are greatly devoted to him. The coming of the dear little boy has brought much happiness to his many relatives and congratulations and gifts for him have poured in them look with longing towards the restful quiet of summer days.

BRIDGE CONTINUES FAVORITE AMUSEMENT.

After all, for small gatherings, bridge continues to be the favorite form of amusement, and the smaller clubs have very informal meetings and manage to score many good times. This week a club of bridge enthusiasts across the bay assembled at the Cliff House, where a jolly dinner was enjoyed before the game.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Felton Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Waldrum, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ober, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morgan.

MESSAGE FROM PARIS ON HATS OF TODAY.

Sometimes a note from the world of fashion stands out with startling vividness against the background of spring costumes. And this one refers to the hats of today, and a well-known authority, writing from Paris, echoes the latest cry.

"Feathers are more used than flowers on the earliest spring hats, but later the flowers will be as much seen as ever. The display of colors in the flowers is this year more than ever gorgeous. The strongest color for hats, parasols and veils is purple in all shades from deep violet to pale lavender. This is what the Paris milliners say, and it is safe to predict that the color wave will reach to all parts of America. The French plume, with curled effect, is used again, and the group of three small tips called Prince of Wales feathers is much seen, after years of retirement."

Some well-known women make a becoming color their own, and the many shades of violet represent wonderful possibilities in a color scheme. Among those who wear color tones of violet, purple and mauve a great deal are Mrs. Requa, Mrs. C. C. Clay, Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith, Mrs. Wallace Alexander, Mrs. J. P. Dunn, Miss Matilda Brown, Mrs. Frances Thomas, Mrs. Wallace Everson, Miss Maud Edith Pope, Mrs. George Bornemann, Mrs. Gordon Stoltz, Mrs. R. G. Brown, Mrs. Chris Jorgenson, Mrs. Edward Brayton, Mrs. Philip Clay.

SEND OUT CARDS FOR BRIDGE AFTERNOON.

Mrs. Ida Gorill and Mrs. Vance McClymonds have sent out cards for bridge and will entertain a number of their friends on next Tuesday afternoon. They are making their guest of honor Mrs. Gorill's daughter-in-law, a very charming young bride, Mrs. Arthur Gorill.

They will give their bridge afternoon at Mrs. Ida Gorill's home on Piedmont avenue, and among those assisting will be Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. J. W. McClymonds and Mrs. Dudley Kinsell. Mrs. Gorill's home has for years been a very representative one in Oakland, and Mrs. Vance McClymonds, who was a bride of last year, is a most delightful young matron, who has made many lasting friends since coming to Oakland to make her home among us.

Mrs. Arthur Gorill also will receive a warm welcome from her husband's friends, and the bridge afternoon in her honor will be one of the important social events of next week.

BRIDES-ELECT ARE HONORED AT TEAS.

Two teas for well-known brides-elect were given on Thursday, the hostesses being Mrs. Murray Johnson and Mrs. Kenneth Hamilton.

Mrs. Johnson entertained in her beautiful Piedmont home at a large reception, making her guest of honor her niece, Miss Ethel Johnson.

Dr. and Mrs. Murray Johnson are among the best-known of our people on this side of the bay, their home having been here for many years, and the invitation list in honor of Miss Johnson, who has been a much-entered bride-elect, is a long one.

There was a large number of guests during the afternoon, the Piedmont and East Oakland districts being specially well represented. Among those who assisted Mrs. Johnson in receiving the many guests of the afternoon were:

Mrs. Flayer Mrs. David (dupe) Mrs. James A. John Mrs. Herbert (dupe) son Dr. Buckel son Mrs. Erwin Brickett Mrs. Stark Mrs. Elizabeth Wilcox Mrs. James Shepherd Miss Elizabeth Orick Mrs. Jenkins Mrs. Margaret Meek Mrs. Florence Walls Mrs. Ruth Nelson Mrs. E. A. Webster Miss Isabelle Scupham Mrs. Charles Helsen Miss Ernestine Mohr

The house was very beautifully decorated in honor of the bride-elect, and the reception was an important spring social event.

INTEREST HIGH IN CLAREMONT TOURNAMENT.

Much interest was displayed at the Claremont Country Club in the tournament given last Saturday. There were many luncheons at the club, at which the visitors from across the bay were entertained, and exceptionally fine scores at golf were announced.

Frank Kales won the low medal score, finishing with an almost perfectly played 72.

The tournament was given under the auspices of the Northern California Golf Association, and among the many who made fine records in achieving splendid scores were:

Frank Kales, Jack Neville, F. W. Garby, W. P. Johnson, Captain Goodall, Al Coogan, Frank Proctor, Dennis Searles, T. C. Coogan, E. B. Braden, J. H. Dieckmann and Hugh Goodfellow.

Mrs. Frank Brown is an exceedingly able member of the women's board of the exposition, and her return home will be welcomed with gladness by the other members of the board, as well as by her friends on this side of the bay.

MISS ADELE SCOTT IS SUCCESSFUL HOSTESS.

Miss Adele Scott, the bright young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Scott, was the hostess this afternoon at a very entertaining card party, given at her East Oakland home. Miss Scott, who is a pupil at Miss Head's school in Berkeley, entertained in honor of three of her school friends—Miss Armine von Temkfy, Miss Gwendolen von Temkfy and Miss Irene Modhouse.

The three guests of honor are seniors at Miss Head's school, and will graduate on the seventeenth of May, after which they will all return to their home in Hawaii. So the card party for them was in one sense a farewell affair.

Miss Adele Scott is very charming girl, who loves to plan kindnesses for her friends, and so her afternoon was along specially delightful lines. The home was very pretty, indeed, with its lovely decorations of Lady Banksia roses, the dear "little Lady Banksia's" being specially appropriate as decorations for a young girls' card party. Five hundred was the game chosen for the afternoon, the prizes being a handsome parasol, very appropriate, now that summer is almost here; and bright among their California memories will be the afternoon they spent at the home of their young friend, Miss Adele Scott.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR DANCING SEASON.

Early as it is in the year, plans are already being formulated for the dances of next season, and it is well known that their will be the Junior Assembly and the Friday Night Club. Both are needed. The little maidens who have blithely danced through their seasons of the Junior Assemblies are now ready for the Friday Night seasons, and there are other little maidens waiting to take their places.

The Friday Night Club scored a just success last season, and so it is practically settled that it is to continue during the coming year. It was not to be denied that the poor patronesses of all of the dances everywhere had much to worry them during this last season. For the young people would insist on dropping off into the new dances. And mothers, from their seats against the wall, might wink their eyes until the latter ached, or shake their heads disapprovingly at some wayward little daughter. Nothing mattered. Even the great Greenway was powerless. To rag was the question. A clever writer for Harper's pictured the return of some grand dame of the last century—a belle of long ago. She would feel that something of romance and something of dignity had disappeared, and that the entertainment had more the quality of a child's party than a full-fledged ball. And here is what she would see, also:

"If it were given under the most correct auspices, her regrets might go no further. If not, she would presently be surprised to see, as the band began a strange, syncopated measure, that the couples were no longer dancing in the attitude to which she had become accustomed—the woman's left hand on the man's shoulder and her right hand out from her body. Both the woman's hands would be on, or even dangling over, the man's shoulders, while their steps imitated rather from the buzzard than the turkey the couple oscillate instead of circling.

"In other words, she is witnessing for the first time one of those new dances so called because no one cares to remember to what primitive times and emotions they may be traced."

Well, it is not quite as bad as that. We even hear that upon ragtime will be based the future opera of our country. Europe has always clamored for something original from us. We have the weird Indian music—primitive, primeval—and we have the darky music of the South, either representing a wonderful pathos, or the jolliest measures in the world. It has given us ragtime, and the young people have accepted the latter as their own, and the poor chaperones everywhere have had a season of stress and trouble that must make

MRS. JOSEPH KNOWLAND, PROMINENT IN THE SOCIAL LIFE OF THE BAY CITIES.

The young hostess was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother, Mrs. J. Walter Scott, and the guests of honor were pretty and very delightful girls, whom everybody was very glad to meet.

Miss Scott wore a very artistic gown of pink chiffon, with an overdress of dew-drop net, and the gown made simple and with fine lines. Among the pretty gowns to be seen at Miss Scott's afternoon were those worn by the Misses Elizabeth Latam Margaret Nickerson
Marie Layris Georgia Rye

HIS HIGH VELOCITY COURTSHIP KEPT GIRL TOO BUSY TO EAT

Alaskan Millionaire Astrup De-nies He Kissed Miss Morton Too Strenuously.

CHICAGO, April 27.—George W. Astrup, the Alaskan millionaire, who Miss Belle Morton of Chicago says kissed her so much she would not marry him, yesterday denied everything and fled to French Lick Springs. Miss Morton was arrested on complaint of Astrup, the ardent lover, after she eluded his high velocity courtship.

That arrest was Astrup's exposure, the girl said. She said he was so busy kissing her she could not eat her meals nor get her teeth fixed.

"I'm just seeing Chicago," was Astrup's only explanation. "I hate this mess. I teach a big Sunday school class at home."

Astrup is president of the Northern Fish and Trading Company of Peterson, Alaska.

Horrors!

MUNICH, April 27.—Dr. Carl Francke, an eminent physician, writes to a medical friend an attack on the sheath skirt, which he says is ruining female figures, stunting development and producing a race of knock-kneed women. The doctor says the sheath skirts are so strait-laced the angles are all lost, resulting in unrestricted exercise, which is only possible with wide skirts. The time must come, he says, when it will be a crime to wear tight skirts.

Abductor Tells Tale

SCRANTON, Pa., April 27.—How an old man disappointed in love twenty-five years ago, planned to kill the void in his heart with the 10-year-old daughter of his old sweetheart was pathetically told in the police court here when James Leary of Nichols, N. Y., faced Magistrate W. S. Miller on a charge of the abduction of Irene Lunn from her home in the same village.

According to the girl's story, in which Leary concurred, the man bent and withered by his sixty years, was the fiance of her mother long ago. Parental objection separated them and each married another. Leary's wife died in a few years, and in his loneliness he turned to the daughter of his former sweetheart.

Co-eds Defeated

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 27.—Women in politics went down to defeat at Stanford yesterday when J. W. Howell was chosen editor of the Stanford Sequoia over Miss Marjorie Driscoll. In the first election for this office, which took place last week, four candidates were in the race. At this time Miss Driscoll polled more votes than any other aspirant, but after the withdrawal of the two low men, the majority of the ballots went for Howell, who won by 61 votes.

J. Wesley Howell, who will edit the Sequoia next year, is a member of the political science class, but will return next year for work in the Stanford law department. He was coxswain of the 1912 freshman crew and has been actively connected with boating throughout his college career. Howell was editor of the 1912 Quad, the Stanford annual. Howell is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and is enrolled in the Stanford Press Club, Skull and Snakes and Phi Delta Phi honor societies.

Kills Her Mother

PORTLAND, Ore., April 27.—Louis Whitlock, a young man still in his teens, yesterday shot and killed Mrs. N. Bell, proprietor of a dye works. The young man was told that his attentions were objectionable to both the young woman and her mother, and, instead of leading to another, Whitlock suddenly and violently enraged and drew a revolver and fired five shots at Mrs. Bellaire, killing her instantly. Whitlock ran from the place, but was captured by a citizen, who held the young man until the police arrived. Whitlock's brother is the husband of one of Mrs. Bellaire's daughters.

Disinherits Spouse

CHICAGO, April 27.—Out of the $130,000 estate left by Mrs. Margaret Potter Black, the well known novelist who died recently, John D. Black, her divorced husband, will receive, according to the will filed in the probate court, "his letters written to me during the past year and nothing more."

Black, who reached at his office and asked why he was to get about the entire sum of his former wife as shown in her last testament, replied that he had no opinion to express.

John D. Black obtained a divorce from his wife a year ago before Judge Gibbs. Mr. Black was tried in the county court, found insane and sent to a sanatorium.

Her Plea Wins

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 27.—A unique incident occurred in the state legislature when, after an address on "prison reform," by Miss Kate Barnard, state commissioner of charities of Oklahoma, the assembled legislators took up a collection to send a convict in the Arizona state penitentiary to Washington in order that he might patent an invention which, according to Miss Barnard, is worth millions.

This was done after the legislature, by a vote of 100 to 1, voted to return the parole, and Miss Barnard headed the subscription list with a donation of $50.

The convict in whom behalf Miss Barnard has become interested is Joy J. Myers, who is serving a sentence for forgery.

"Dead" Returns

PENDLETON, Ore., April 27.—Supposed to have been dead for twenty-five years, Michael R. Young of Cadott, Wis., appeared here yesterday to assist his daughter, Mrs. Mabel Young Warner, in her sensational fight for the $100,000 estate of J. W. Young, Mrs. Warner's uncle. Mrs. Warner's fight to acquire this estate has been in the courts for eight years, and her father says he is ready to support her financially in her battle.

Mrs. Warner recently produced the seventh will that she has filed, each leaving the Young estate to her. Three times she has been tried for forgery at an associate judge.

Insomnia Devastating to Beauty

By LILLIAN RUSSELL

(Copyright, 1912, Lillian Russell.)

AGES have been written on the subject of insomnia, and the first rule, "banish all worries," seems to be the most important—and the last to be obeyed. "Don't have any excitement in the evening," is another platitudinous suggestion. "Do not eat at night," some doctors say.

After all is said and done people cannot avoid worries. If their own affairs do not worry them they generally assume the responsibility of others' troubles and worry for them. The rule should be to overcome your worries as soon as possible. For as soon as a problem is settled in your mind peace and relaxation comes to you and sleep is easy and beautifying.

How do we know that we shall have no excitement in the evening? Anything may happen, from a child falling downstairs to a house afire across the way. We can no more set a guard against excitement than we can against accidents. All we want is the fortitude to accept the inevitable and understand that we are in no way changed by what happens from one day to the next.

We must put our own house in order. Our mind is our house, we must attend to that before we assume the responsibility of other people's houses. Each one of us has his own place in this world and there is always the necessary figuring out of personal problems that have a tendency to distract or worry us.

We may be obliged to work out our problems at night, when all is quiet and the mind is allowed to concentrate upon one subject without disturbance. In that case hours of thinking (when a satisfactory decision is arrived at) are not hours wasted or lost, and the rest obtained by the mind takes the place of hours of bodily rest.

The number of hours required for sleep is generally set down at ten for a woman and eight for a man, but how many people in this world sleep that long? Only a few.

The greatest and simplest cure for insomnia is hard work, real absorbing work of any kind, either physical or mental, but it should be real work. If one has no work to do a two hours' walk will encourage sleep. People are built to be active. God never intended us to live a sedentary life or he would have made us differently.

We who are blessed with health and all of our faculties have no right to sit down and think life away. There is much to be done, if not for ourselves, for others.

Go to bed when you care to and make up your mind to sleep and rest. Breathe deeply for a few minutes, with mouth closed and hands on the hips with shoulders raised, then sponge the body with cold water, put on night clothes, open the window, turn out the lights and go to bed. Cover yourself not heavily but warmly.

Say your prayers and ask for the beauty of common sense in preference to almost any other blessing. With several doses of this prescription you will be cured permanently of insomnia.

Remember, Sleep is nature's most powerful beautifier.

You. If you will inclose a stamped addressed envelope you will receive a personal reply.

H. M. B.—I would not advise you to change the color of your hair. Few people who dye their hair are satisfied with the results. Few women can dye their hair properly and hair that is streaked is horrid. I would advise you to leave your hair alone as long as it is not gray. Perhaps you will not look well with auburn hair after you had dyed it, then what could you do? However, if you have fully decided on it I would advise you to go to a beauty shop and have it dyed by an expert.

Mrs. B. L.—The Hungarian water you speak of is used for closing the pores and for toning up the skin. I shall be glad to send it to you upon receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope. I shall also send you directions for the care of the teeth.

ANXIOUS.—Is it possible that you want to stop growing? Tall girls are considered fashionable nowadays. There is nothing that will make you stop growing. However, you can gain in weight. If you will send me an addressed stamped envelope I shall be happy to send you a dietary for gaining flesh.

ELSIE N.—Have your druggist put up one drachm salicylic acid and one ounce of colodion in a small bottle with a brush run through the cork. Touch the warts with this mixture, several times a day. Be exceedingly careful not to get any on the surrounding skin. Do not irritate them in any way.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

MRS. E.—Have you tried bathing the arms with buttermilk and lemon juice? This is good for minor freckles. Also try the buttermilk to dry on. Try this treatment for a few weeks, and if the freckles are stubborn and will not come off send me an addressed, stamped envelope and I shall be glad to send you a stronger bleach for freckles. I shall also send you a tonic for the hair.

However, if you do not see your answer in the columns within a week or so, write me again, telling me what you wish, and I shall be glad to answer it for you.

BERKELEY WOMEN CAST THEIR FIRST VOTES

BALLOTING IS DONE EARLY AND WELL

Mayor J. Stitt Wilson Accompanies His Wife to the Voting Tent.

Four Charter Amendments Under Consideration in the College City.

BERKELEY, April 27.—Berkeley women today exercised their selective franchise for the first time, participating side by side with the men in the balloting on the four charter amendments up for decision today. It is expected that the effect of their voting will be clearly evident in the result on the liquor amendment, and that their majority will oppose the sale of liquor in original packages as proposed.

Many of the most prominent women in Berkeley participated in the election, casting their ballots with their husbands and wives, a still larger number than the masculine result of Civil League tutelage. Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, wife of the president of the University of California, voted early in the forenoon at Bancroft Way and Telegraph Avenue.

WIFE ACCOMPANIES MAYER.

Mrs. J. Stitt Wilson, wife of Mayor Wilson, waited until afternoon to vote, casting her ballot at two o'clock in the tent at University and Shattuck avenues. She was accompanied to the booth by Mayor Wilson. Mrs. Alice Little Barry, companion of the school board on the recall ticket, voted at the Oxford school in North Berkeley. Illness in her family prevented her reaching the polls during the forenoon, and she cast her ballot there shortly after noon.

Miss May McLean Keith, one of the most prominent suffrage leaders in the State, widow of William Keith, the artist, cast her ballot early in the morning at Ellsworth street and Bancroft Way before leaving for Philadelphia to attend the reception given by Mrs. Phoebe Hearst.

In the fashionable Claremont district the first women to vote were Mrs. R. H. Van Sant and Mrs. L. W. Jewett. Many others cast their ballots later in the day.

WOMEN ARE EARLY VOTERS.

Notable in the feminine vote was the casting of early votes by this morning's young women employed in various San Francisco stores and offices, who crossed the bay on the early local trains. Throughout the districts bordering Shattuck and on both sides and along the routes of other subdivisions there were many votes by women before seven o'clock. According to the officers of election they seemed heartily to enjoy exercising their new privilege, several young women going in groups and having a good time voting to enter their trains.

Some few amusing experiences at different booths were the result of the novelty of the balloting operations for the women voters. At Bancroft Way and Telegraph Avenue, one voter took her ballot from the election clerk, rejected the use of his fountain pen to mark her ballot. A bit of explanation sent her scurrying, prettily blushing, to the booth. At Roosevelt street and Webster, after emerging from the booth that there was no cross on her rubber stamp but that it left "just a blue black smudge." It turned out that she had merely used the wrong end of the stamp. As she was about to cross to be marked on the ballot, she was given a new blank and permitted to try it again.

FOUR AMENDMENTS.

Four amendments to the city charter are being voted upon today. The first provides for the sale of liquor within the city limits of the State limit of a mile from the University of California grounds. The second fixes salaries of city officials definitely, doing away with the confusion resulting upon the finance commission's collecting salary for service on the school board. The third amends the police force. The third detailed specifically the method of street opening and the last raised the tax rate maximum from $1 to $1.35 per $100.

TO HOLD THE FUNERAL OF MRS. NOY WIFE OF MAYOR PASSES QUIETLY AWAY

THE LATE MRS. IDA PHELPS NOY.

Alameda Woman Makes Arrangements for Obsequies Before Death, Which Follows Long Illness

ALAMEDA, April 27.—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Ida Phelps Noy, who died yesterday, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Congregational church and will be in charge of Rev. C. L. Mears, pastor of the church and a close friend of Mrs. Noy. Rev. Mears was the officiating clergyman at the wedding of Mayor and Mrs. Noy last June. During the weeks Mrs. Noy lay dying, her deep religious nature came prominently to the fore. Her religion was her chief comfort and her chief source of strength during the weeks and even months of intense suffering she endured. She was acutely conscious all of the time, her condition increasing her suffering which at times reached violent paroxysms of agony.

The city flags and many of the private flags are flying at half-mast out of respect to Mrs. Noy and the mayor.

Mrs. Noy was born in North Salem, Missouri, in 1887. She is survived by her husband, her parents, a grown son, three sisters and three brothers. The son is Ernest C. Phelps of Stony Brook, Columbia. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Peeler of Wheatland, Calif. The sisters and brothers are Mrs. Belle Ryan and Mrs. Little Culbertson of Lincoln. Mrs. Maud R. David of Sheridan, Calif.; Leonard M. and Frank M. Peavler of Wheatland and Charles B. Peavler of Healdsburg, Sonoma county. Mrs. Noy's daughter, Mrs. Lillian Jackson Morrison, died suddenly at Chico last July, a few days after Mrs. Noy and the mayor returned from their honeymoon in the Santa Cruz mountains.

MARRIED LESS THAN YEAR.

The mayor and Mrs. Noy were married on June 11, 1911, the wedding taking place at the home of the mayor's son, Richard L. Noy, on Pacific avenue. Following the honeymoon Mayor and Mrs.

Noy took up their residence in the mayor's home at 1543 Bay street. When Mrs. Noy's health failed she was removed to a hospital for treatment but later it was found that medical science could not avail and she was removed to the Noy home to await the end. For months she lingered in a hopeless condition. For the last 28 days preceding her death she took scarcely a drop of nourishment, slowly starving to death. Her vitality was wonderfully exciting the surprise of physicians and nurses. She was conscious to the very last.

Her final death struggle took place yesterday morning when Mayor Noy was hurriedly summoned from the city hall where he had gone on business of a pressing nature. Later she rallied and lingered until between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon when she quietly passed away.

Mrs. Noy made all funeral arrangements and disposed of her property interests some weeks before her death. Her last wishes will be followed out without change, both as to her estate and the funeral. She will be buried in her wedding dress. Two of the numbers to be sung by the mixed quartet at the funeral were selected by Mrs. Noy. They are "Nearer My God to Thee," and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." The quartet will be composed of Mrs. J. Collari, Miss Eliza Banta, E. H. McDonald and A. J. McConaughay. The body will be taken to Wheatland for interment. Rev. C. L. Mears will accompany the funeral party and will conduct the services at the grave.

Mrs. Noy's mother and son were with her when she died, having come to Alameda, several weeks ago when her condition became critical. They, with other relatives present at the funeral, will accompany the body to Wheatland.

OVERPRODUCTION IN WHISKY IS FEARED

LOUISVILLE, April 2.—Overproduction of Kentucky whisky, similar to that during the four years from 1890 to 1893, inclusive, which was followed by several years of depression, is feared by local distillers, who have agreed that curtailment in the output is imperative. The trade has produced about 90,000,000 gallons in the last two years, more than 70,000,000 in excess of the demand. Distillers say a tremendous impetus was given the production of Kentuboulevard by the pure food rulings as to what constitutes real whisky, and many increased the capacity of their plants in anticipation of a big demand. The overthrow of Dr. Wiley's conclusions later cut into the consumption of whisky.

Drys' Win Fight in Santa Clara County

State Senator Is Sentenced to Nine Months for Accepting Bribe.

COLUMBUS, April 27.—State Senator L. R. Andrews of Marion, convicted of accepting a bribe for his vote in the constitutional law to the saloon question, gave the "dries" a majority of 1075, being more than 2 to 1 in favor of abolishing the saloons. The incorporated towns in the district are already "dry," and the others that now close their saloons are Old Mountain View, Saratoga, Alma, Wrights and Meridian. All the road-houses also will be closed.

OAKLAND BRANCH OF LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

The Oakland branch of the California League for Home Rule in Taxation, having for its purpose the organization of initiation petitions, this and, has been organized. C. W. Parrotburn was elected president of the branch and Dr. Henry F. Darrow secretary. The headquarters will be in the Thayer building.

"DANIEL HULL" COLONEL HAS IS BRANDED IMPOSTOR BUSY DAY ON TRAINS

Savannah Police Declare Well Dressed Prisoner Is Masquerading.

May Be Held for Four Counts of Forgery and Bad Check Passing.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The man posing as Daniel Hull, and registered at the St. Francis Hotel, who advanced $250 by the First National Bank on an alleged worthless check is an impostor, according to a telegram received by the police here today. Occupying one of the best rooms in the hotel, situated in the height of fashion, hopping between right and left, the individual, whose identity is a mystery, has been taken into custody and is now in detention at the city prison. The wire, which is expected to prove his undoing and which is in the hands of Detective Sergeant David Murphy, reads as follows:

"SAVANNAH, Ga., April 27.—Local bank received wire asking them to wire $10,000 to New York, signed Dan Hull, Daniel Hull now in Savannah. Party sending wire is impersonating him. Arrest, ascertain name and wire further description. Instructions will be sent on receipt of your wire."

"W. G. AUSTIN, Chief of Police."

COMES FROM NORTH.

The man under arrest here who posed as Daniel Hull, son of Joseph Hull, multi-millionaire banker of Georgia, arrived Monday from Seattle. He told people at the St. Francis that he was a nephew of Robert J. Lowrey, past president of the American Bankers Association.

He endeavored to collect a draft for $500 on the First National Bank drawn on the Merchants' and Metal Bank of New York, but was refused payment. Later, however, he was advanced $250 because of his appearance when he drew up in a fashionable looking auto accompanied by a negro valet.

Ever since his arrival Hull has been watched by Detectives Wren and Murphy, who are keeping a sharp lookout for him with forgery and passing fictitious checks. According to the officers they have four counts against him, one for a check for $1375 on Colonel Andrews' Diamond Palace, another for $551.50 on the D. Samuels Lace House, another for $250 on the St. Francis Hotel, besides the draft deposited at the bank.

WILSON ON TRAIN.

The cheers for Roosevelt in the South station had scarcely died away when they were renewed by the advent of Governor Woodrow Wilson for additional speeches today in Worcester, Springfield and Holyoke.

At the Taft headquarters arrangements were perfected for the second visit of the President on Monday when he will take up the Roosevelt trail through Bristol, Plymouth, Essex and Middlesex counties.

A statement issued by the supporters of Senator La Follett says he would poll 20,000 in the preferential primaries on Tuesday. At the Clark headquarters of New York, Governor-elect Robinson of Arkansas and ex-Senator Fred Dubois of Idaho would speak in several Boston wards, as well as at Brockton and Chelsea tonight. Copies of the "Houn-Dawg" song are being given wide circulation.

Neill and Judge Knapp Refuse to Discuss Details of Sessions.

NEW YORK, April 27.—United States Commissioner of Labor Charles F. Neill and Judge Martin A. Knapp of the United States Commerce Court believe their negotiations with the representatives of fifty railroads in the Eastern territory and the engineers over the question of increased pay will not prove unproductive, but decline to discuss the present situation except to say that progress is being made. The two mediators conferred again this morning with the sub-committee of railroad managers, and on Monday will meet the committee of engineers.

Judge Knapp started today for Washington to absent until Monday. After a brief conference with the sub-committee of railroad managers, Commissioner Neill said there would be no more conferences until Judge Knapp's return. In the meantime Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers and chairman of their sub-committee, is expected to make known to Neill what procedure would meet the engineers' approval.

The mother was finally persuaded to accompany the party into court and she went before Assistant District Attorney Hynes, who questioned her in regard to the whole proceeding.

Liese stated that the woman produced no weapon when she made the threat, but that she told him several times to get out from the premises or she would shoot him.

RICHMOND Nurse Battles With Animal, Which Attacks Official's Daughter.

RICHMOND, April 27.—With remarkable courage, Florence Hughes, a nurse employed by City Engineer Farley, last evening battled with a vicious dog and saved the life of Jane Farley, the three-year-old daughter of the official. The child was badly lacerated about the right arm and probably would have been killed had not the nurse fought off the infuriated animal. They were out for a walk when the dog ran out and seized the child's arm. The girl grappled with the beast and succeeded in tearing the child away from it and rushing back to the residence, where medical aid was summoned and the wounds treated. The dog was taken to the pound and killed and today its body will be examined for symptoms of rabies.

SAN DIEGO, April 27.—Two bands of Industrial Workers of the World, numbering thirty men in all, were arrested yesterday by the police as the men were making their way towards this city. One band was bound miles west of Blue Rock Beach and the other at Old Town where they had taken refuge in a barn belonging to a policeman. They were taken to the city limits, fed and ordered to return northward.

PUPILS TO GIVE NOVEL DANCES

Ruth Clarke, Aged Thirteen, to Be Crowned at Ceremony Next Saturday.

Several hundred children will take part in the May Day festival which will be celebrated next Saturday afternoon in Lakeside Park. Boys and girls representing the playgrounds of this city will appear in a series of folk dances, which have been arranged for the day. The directors of the local pleasure resorts have been coaching the youngsters in the European dances, which will be an interesting feature of the program.

Superintendent of Playgrounds George E. Dickie had issued an invitation to the pupils of the public schools of Alameda county to attend the festivities. The celebration will be similar to those held in Europe.

The crowning of the queen will be one of the novel events of the day. Ruth Clarke, a thirteen-year-old student in the Alameda school, has been elected to represent the queen. The honor was bestowed upon her because of her interest in the playground activities. She has been a leader in athletics and is a favorite with her playmates. The members of her court will be chosen from the children of the playgrounds of Oakland.

DANZIG, Germany, April 27.—Baptismal Koenig Albert, named for former King of Saxony, was launched today. The present Saxon King, Frederick August, was present and made a speech, and his sister, Princess Mathilda, christened the vessel.

The Koenig Albert is practically identical with the battleships Kaiser and Frederick der Grosse. It has a tonnage of 24,600 and is armed with ten 12-inch and four 6-inch guns. The engines develop a speed of 21 knots. The ship's turbines are adapted for the consumption of either coal or oil fuels. She has five turrets, three of which are in the center line fore and aft, and the other two amidships. The cost of construction is nearly $12,000,000.

POLITICAL POWER NOT WANTED

Bishop Oldham Illustrates Remarkable Work of Church in Islands.

BERKELEY, April 27.—"You can not give us preacher people too much power at any time without our coming to decay. God save the church from being an instrument in politics." So Bishop William F. Oldham, superintendent of Methodist missions in Southeastern Asia, told a congregation which assembled to hear him Thursday, at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Bishop Oldham illustrated his remark by reviewing the history of the Christian church in the Philippines Islands, declaring that up to the time of the American conquest of the islands it was "the most miserable page ever written in ecclesiastical history." The bishop paid a high tribute to the American priests and bishops who have gone into the islands and are making their church there a great devotional church.

The work of the American government in the Islands Bishop Oldham pronounced "the finest piece of governmental constructive work I have ever seen. There have never been devised in any colony or which I have known such nearly perfect methods as are being devised and carried out in the Philippines." The parents were advised not to consent to having their sons if young men go out to enter the public school system of the Islands, as the government would "put a padlock upon their lips" and they would also find themselves in "an atmosphere of overgovernance."

NOT READY FOR INDEPENDENCE

"I do not believe the time has come for the Islands to go their own way. I have been intimately associated with them for eight years and know the people better than the average traveler or investigator. The plain man, young outside the central cities, has not learned individual personal freedom. The people are untrained. At the time of the American occupancy of the islands, they had never so much as held a town meeting or elected a constable or dog catcher. An increasing intelligence is coming out of the public schools. Now 94 per cent of the offices are held by the Filipinos. All the mayors are Filipinos, the governors of all the provinces but two, which are not Filipinos, the attorney general and all less than one-half of the members of the legislature and a very large majority of the commissioners. Wait for three generations of school children to arise who will know what freedom is. Then let them vote and decide about independence. It was impossible to hand over the government to a people who had never exercised self-government for an hour."

The Pacific, with Asia on the one side and America on the other, is the great ocean of the world and the great theater of the supreme power in the future. The Philippine Islands complete the circle of the American physical and national influence all round the Pacific, and practically locking up the Pacific and makes it an American lake."

Bishop Oldham, who is in this country at this time on account of the General Conference, in closing, told the representatives of the American Protestant churches, and appealed for funds to aid the special work being carried on by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, under whose auspices the meeting of yesterday afternoon was held. Mrs. Oldham was introduced to the audience at the close of the bishop's address.

MEN ARRESTED AS VENDORS OF DRUGS

RICHMOND, April 27.—With nearly $100 worth of opium in a small grip they were carrying, James McDonald and James Drenan were arrested by the local police last evening on suspicion of being engaged in peddling the drug through the interior of the city. They will be held here until thorough investigation can be made as to how they came by it, and whether they are a part of the opium ring which has its headquarters in San Francisco. It is thought that they came to this city to get into the drug trade, able to dispose of the drug, and it was on this information, received privately by the police, that they were followed. The federal authorities have been notified of the apprehension of the two men, and that the officials were taken into custody in San Francisco for the second service in San Francisco for the purpose of ascertaining if they have ever before been mixed up in any of the opium cases coming under the federal jurisdiction.

BOND WAR STILL WAGES IN ALAMEDA

Municipal League Announces
It Will Bar Antis From the Floor Tonight.

BERKELEY, April 27.—West Berkeley, once a quiet semi-rural hamlet, is defeated. At least this was the threat which B. J. Williams, a speaker of the agitators for a wet town, had uttered in a conversation over the telephone on Thursday evening. Williams, a business man of Berkeley, told him, calling Goldor to inquire as to the authorship of the appeal sent out by the "Berkeley Merchants Association" in behalf of the amendment and said that Goldor claimed any knowledge of the authorship of the document. Goldor, who is president of the Berkeley Merchants Association, told him he had called up Charles Hadden, a business man of West Berkeley, and that Hadden claimed he didn't know who was presentent of the association, or the name of any organization of any kind connected with it, and did not know who had sent out the cards containing the appeal to make Berkeley wet.

Williams charged that Goldor was incorrect in his statement, and argued that the streets of Berkeley in order to deliver liquors in this city and yet paid no taxes as local merchants do. Inasmuch as the time the Standard Oil Company was granted a permit to do the same in West Berkeley, and behaved his opponents for so designating them. Goldor appeared with other citizens before the city council and protested against license being given the company, notwithstanding that the company was using the streets to do its business in Oakland and doing no taxes in this city.

WHY DR. BANE BOUGHT LAND

"If Berkeley had not been a saloonless town," said Rev. A. C. Bane of this city, superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, "we would not have been compelled to buy land in the city and pay taxes on it."

"We have been compelled to buy land in the city and pay taxes on it," he said. "The city has been compelled to buy land in the city and pay taxes on it."

BERKELEY HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI COMMITTEE

The Berkeley high school alumni committee of the Bither-Barry-Haight Club has issued the following resolutions:

"Whereas, We, the undersigned alumni of the Berkeley High School, in view of the educational advantages which we have received therefrom, believe it to be our duty and interest to help protect our school against political influence and to demand the exertion of all our efforts in the protection of all school employees from Janitor to superintendent; and,

"Whereas, We stand opposed to the establishment in Berkeley of a precedent, disregarding the work of a successful educational organization established without a hearing and without reason—in short, without the display of that justice which he extended to all his teachers; and,

"Whereas, We, fully apprised of the fact that Dr. Bane, a teacher, do yet believe in his appointment to the superintendency of the schools of Berkeley would be disastrous to himself and detrimental to the schools; therefore be it resolved,

"Resolved, That we stand for the candidate of the Bither-Barry-Haight Club,

"ROMILIA BROWN, Chairman

"R. R. RANDALL

"R. R. RANDALL

"JOHN U. CALKINS

"H. M. IRWIN."

On the grounds that a private person can quibble about mandamus proceedings against such an election as the Berkeley recall and further that the complaint had been insufficiently set forth, Superior Judge Harris late yesterday signed the petition of Dr. E. O. Davis and Dr. R. R. Ross for an injunction. The court held that in an election for the annexation of territory such proceedings might have some effect as a certain number of persons might possibly be induced to vote. In another instance, however, the court declared that all would be affected alike and denied the writ.

The petitioners obtained a temporary injunction from Judge Harris, but the claim that the words had been taken out of the published proclamation for the election thereby invalidating the call. Both the recallers and the attorneys for the city officials agreed that when the election was adjourned to that date to prevent its being held as they desired, that the matter be definitely settled.

REBUKE STERN.

Unauthorised use of the name of the Mothers' club of Berkeley, alleged to have been exhibited by Director Herman I. Stern at the Berkeley high school auditorium in a recent campaign speech, is repudiated in the following resolution signed by members of the several Mothers' clubs, do hereby resolve that,

"Whereas, We believe that the organization of Mothers' clubs for the promotion of mutual confidence and service not alone among Congregational churches but with those of other denominations also. In doing so we seek to prepare to entertain overtures for union with other theological seminaries."

President Nash says:

"Lending educators throughout the United States have been consulted and have expressed a warm approval of the Seminary's broad-minded action. It will doubtless help the modern movement toward interdenominational union."

In taking this step the institution is only returning to the intention of its founders who in the sixties attempted to found the Seminary as an interdenominational institution. Failing in this undertaking, the Congregationalists undertook the task alone. By declaring itself interdenominational, the institution undoubtedly entered upon a greater career of usefulness. The lectures which annually bring to the Coast on the Earl Foundation have become an important part of Berkeley's educational campaign."

MERCHANTS OPPOSE BUSINESS LICENSE

Would Knock Out Entire Measure and Substitute General Tax.

ALAMEDA, April 27.—Alameda merchants are to wage organized war on the business license ordinance. Ever since the measure was drafted two or three years ago there has been much complaining. Some merchants have undertaken at different times to defeat the measure, but the single-handed attempts were never prosecuted to a definite conclusion. In order to lay proper foundations for it, it is expected that the merchants will meet with the city attorney charge when demanded by the collector Albert Kamp, and will submit a bill to clear the record before going into court to have the legality of the ordinance determined.

The business license was framed by Council President E. B. Bullard. There have been some modifications and changes from time to time as defects and weak spots were found. The present agitation for its purpose the knocking out of the entire measure. The Chamber of Commerce is backing the proposal and is more holding that the ordinance is a factor in discouraging new enterprises. Some forms of business are exempt from the special tax, while several taxes in the ordinance were levied on the same individual business. This was the time the ordinance was drafted and the city revenue about $60,000 annually and support the police department. The measure argues that this $60,000, if included in the general tax rate, would increase the tax but a fourth of a cent on the $100 valuation.

The business licensees are now due, and it is planned to start the campaign of rebellion at once. As soon as the tax collector makes his demands the first will

Britton and Moore Agree Upon Jack Welsh as Right Man to Arbitrate Their Go

JACK WELSH TO REFEREE BRITTON-MOORE CONTEST

Rival Lightweights in Tiptop Condition for Twenty-Round Bout Next Tuesday Night at Dreamland Rink

By BERT LOWRY.

If smiles and confidence, coupled with a lot of good nature, mean anything in the fighting game, then Pal Moore is some mixer. The little Quaker miler is all smiles around the gym and keeps up a gist of good-natured bantering with his trainers all through the day's workout. Yesterday it was just the same as when Jimmy Coffroth took a party of friends out to Millett's, and the more the fans see of the Philadelphian the more they warm up to him, and he will have not a few new-found friends in Dreamland Rink on Tuesday night rooting for him to win.

The Philadelphian looks to be in great shape and his work on the road and in the gym proves that he is dead anxious to have himself as fit as a fiddle when he is called on to toe the scratch with Chicago Jack Britton.

Yesterday he went through the first part of the gym work of his punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing in fast style and then took on Sullivan, Taylor, Moore and Jenson for three rounds each. His bout with the Battling Dane—that's the name they have given Jim Moore—is set for next week, and ready to go, no matter how rough it might be.

Jenson had the best in heat and reach, but the Quaker kept calling for him to come on and the fans were greatly impressed with the manner in which he mixed it with the Dane.

MOORE IS CONFIDENT.

Moore is a likeable chap, principally because he talks in a clean-cut confident manner. In speaking of his chances, he said that he never would have come all the way out west if he didn't think he could "win."

"I've boxed many of the best boys throughout the east and only twice have I had the short end of the bout. In one case I was beaten, but the other two I think so myself, but nearly every man that was at the ring thought the same. The fellow that really beat me was Matt Wells and the details of that will show that he had mighty hard to do it."

"I've talked with Orville Moran, Tom Driscoll, Tommy Murphy, Freddie Welsh, Battling Nelson, and Jack Redmond, and they will tell you that I was always in the finish. I am told that Britton is a good boy. I'm glad of that, for it will make my wining all the more enviable to me."

"After the Britton bout I will just hang around, for I like your town and any promoter that wants my services can have me for a sit in the game of fight and I want to get up on top of all the lightweights."

BRITTON WORKING HARD.

Jack Britton, the opponent of Moore, is no laggard around a training camp, and he is as easy to handle as possible.

Even though he is in the grind with promotion and dispatch and never has a dull moment while he is in the gym. Yesterday he went through his usual stunts in rapid-fire order and then took on Frankie Edwards and Young Watson for ten rounds and the third bout should give the fans plenty of real action with the boxer going in the ring.

RING GOSSIP.

Remember a few weeks ago how Able Cook was going to sue Tim Buckley for $100,000, because Jim had damaged his reputation. Wondering if Able has forgotten about the suit or is it his desire to have the fans forget about it. Which is it, Able?

Frankie Moffitt wants an opponent for Frannie Burns on the 5th of May and offers Hyland, Baldwin, Moran, Welsh or anybody else the job of tackling the pride of Oakland. So far none of the seekers for ring honors or dollars have responded, but it is well known that Moffitt may have to fall back on Howard and some near great in the middleweight pond, presumably Eddie McCourt.

FREDDIE WELSH.

English Run champion has been doing well, but he is in the top shape and would be pleased to have the promoters bid for his services.

If the promoters are wise they will let the Pontypool Boy linger right where he is, back among the thistles and beer kegs.

HITT AND MEIKLE HAVE PITCHERS' DUEL HT ENDS IN FAVOR OF SOUTHPAW.

Conditions were reversed over the bay and once failed to follow up a play that would have helped make a double play. It did little damage though for Vernon didn't do anything startling afterwards. He was also on pins and needles while at bat.

San Francisco will introduce a new slabster to the fans in one of the games tomorrow. He is not McCarty, he comes from the Detroit team of the American League, that is, he was one of the bushers trudged out there and then farmed out for more seasoning. It is about time that he makes good, for the box is about as weak as weakness the Seals are showing yet. They are a little shy with the big log.

Tom Rafferty broke back into the game and played a clever article of baseball in the visitors' garden. Tim didn't live up to his reputation as a swatter, though, by any means.

Meikle, who stayed over in San Francisco to be present at the wedding of his brother Willie, broke into the game at L. A. yesterday and celebrated with a couple of healthy wallops.

Powell and Johnson were called upon to do something for their fellow citizens yesterday afternoon but both of them loaned a bloom to although the first named did work Hit for a walk.

The fans went after Hitt in the ninth inning for walking Hartley, but it was a wild man on the part of the Hooglin. Chick might have hit that pellet and it would have been good right for Harry's gang.

Bushy Jackson was in the limelight down south yesterday and leaned against the pellet every time he went to bat, except once, and then the pitcher passed him his first base.

The box is on the Seals. Yesterday Mohler had to sit on the bench with a swollen finger and Hartley spiced by Cervale during the game.

In one place they say that Mundorf will be to the Portland Northwest team while in another they say he won't. Long enough to know, and he is the man that says he won't.

Pitcher McCorry bails from the New York State League last season. He was in twenty-seven games and won seven of them. A pretty good record to start with but then the N. Y. S. L. is not the P. C. L.

TO MOVE SILK CULTURE HOUSE

PLAYGROUND FETE IS LARGE AFFAIR

Famous Old Landmark in Piedmont to Be Done Away With.

PIEDMONT, April 27.—Another landmark, the old silk culture house on Mountain avenue, high up on the Piedmont hills, is about to be removed. About twenty-five years ago the state appropriated funds for the purchase of a number of acres of land for the establishment and equipment of an experimental silk culture station. Mulberry trees were set out, the house built, and a number of silk cocoons produced. But the experiment was not satisfactory and after two years' experiment, the business was sold to several men of whom Warren Ewer, a San Francisco newspaper man was the head. Finding the venture unprofitable it was abandoned and the property divided up.

For several years Warren Ewer and his family resided there, then the brown weather-beaten building, with its metal sign, "U. S. Silk Culture Experimental Station," stood empty among the tall eucalyptus and mulberry trees. About 14 years ago it was occupied by Philip Merrill Mighels and his wife, both of whom are now deceased. After their departure Herman Whitaker, the novelist, resided there with his family.

The beautiful large American flags were woven in San Francisco from the silk produced at Piedmont during this period, one of which is still in the possession of Mrs. O. S. Ewer of San Francisco.

The property is owned by Mrs. C. Hooper, who proposes to have the old house demolished, the acreage thereabouts having already been laid off into city lots.

Mrs. Hooper intends in the near future to erect a bungalow not far from the site of the old house where she and her family will reside during the summer months.

The Regis, Wing, Blair, Lawrence,

Dunning and Craig places are all that now remain of the Piedmont of 25 years ago, and even the Craig place has lost its old time identity, the house having been moved from the center of its acreage to a city lot and the tract it once occupied cut up into lots.

NEW FACTORIES FOR RICHMOND

Elmhurst Mothers Join to Raise Funds for Benefit of Children.

ELMHURST, April 27.—The Elmhurst Mothers' Club fete, for the benefit of the playground fund of the Elmhurst grammar school, opened this afternoon at the school, the affair being in charge of a general arrangement committee composed in part of Mrs. E. Carlson, president of the club; Mrs. A. Carlson, secretary; Mrs. G. Sutherland, treasurer; Mrs. F. Gump, Mrs. G. W. Murphy, Mrs. W. Wood and Mrs. C. F. Gould. Others active in carrying out the details of the fete are: Mrs. Janie Comstock, chairman of the reception committee; Mrs. Alexander Brown, chairman of the home cooking committee, and Mrs. B. T. Penn, chairwoman of the refreshments committee.

Features of the affair are May pole and folk-lore dancing and athletic events, taking place in the school grounds. A musical program was also included in the events of the day, consisting of chorals singing by the children and a band concert by the Lockwood school boys' band.

Various booths were placed about the grounds in charge of members of the club, where home-made articles of many kinds are being sold. The attendance this afternoon was large.

Special arrangements have been made for the entertainment of children, including goat carriages and donkey rides. An art exhibit is open to the public within the school building. The fete will continue this evening.

STUDENTS INSPECT HOSPITAL METHODS

RICHMOND, April 27.—The physiology class for the Richmond high school yesterday, accompanied by their instructor, Prof. Bert X. Tucker, visited the Alameda Hospital to inspect the various scientific methods used. Dr. Martin explained the X-ray, demonstrating his talk with the machine itself. The physiology class has made a number of interesting trips during the term, the present one being the practical side of the science they are studying. Among these was one to the Cutter laboratory in Berkeley and the Western Meat Packing plant in San Francisco.

It is known that at least two more factories are to locate on this tract, one of them being a large concern as there are these not yet obtainable.

These new factories are located close to both the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads, with the Belt line running from both to the Standard Oil plant and the local waterfront, where shipments by water are made.

It is known that the second plant will be located on the Pacific coast, and its present plant is one of the big factories in the city, with an output of over $300,000.

It ships its wares all over the west and its first big order when it established here was that of furnishing all the porcelain ware for a $2,000,000 hotel in San Francisco.

WHEAT UNCERTAIN WHICH WAY TO GO IN STOCK MARKET

Price Is Ready to Jump Either Way, According to the Weather Report.

CHICAGO, April 27—Probable showers to Sunday through Kansas and Nebraska checked the buying fever today in the market, but the price of wheat, which showed no rain had fallen in either state in the last 24 hours caused strength at the outset. Heavies, there were continued damage from fires, fires, and windstorms, which plus yield might be expected to come from the commonwealth as an offset to the losses in territory further east. The opening here was steady, but the market was quiet. Prices started at 14c to 15c to 15.8c, varying from 14c to 15c lower to 15c to 15.8c advance, and declined to 15c.

The close was 15.8c at $1.18 @ 1.144. For July, a net gain of 3c.

Steadiness to a degree unusual of late days followed the corn trade. There was much demand, but buyers were much pressure to sell. July opened + to a shade up at 77c to 77.4c, then down to 77.4c, and appeared inclined to hold.

The market closed at 77.4c to 77.4c for July, a shade above the last night.

Selling on the part of local speculators had been heavy, but the market was held by others who were more interested.

Lightness of offering, added provisions to continue the quiet. Prices moved from 2c lower to 17c higher with September delivery $1.05 to $1.05 per bushel, July, $1.04.

Prices improved soon after the opening, as the issues recouped to a fraction above yesterday's closing. The market was steady throughout the first hour with none of its recent feverishness.

Heading was the overshadowing feature, that stock rising over five points above its previous high record of 1910.

Deals in this stock were in tremendous volume, aggregating over 750,000 shares for the five full days of the week.

Other coal stocks participated to a limited degree. Unquestionably a factor was the virtual settlement of the dispute with the anthracite coal miners, official details of which will be forthcoming next week. Another encouraging influence was the progress toward an amicable conclusion in the controversy between the Eastern railway managers and their engineers.

The financial community was not disposed to pay much attention to politics and professed to see general betterment in industrial and commercial conditions, albeit crop prospects were in some doubt.

There was marked relaxation in money for call and all periods, and renewal of loans to Europe bespoke increasing business here.

Deals in this stock were in tremendous volume, aggregating over 750,000 shares for the five full days of the week.

Other coal stocks participated to a limited degree. Unquestionably a factor was the virtual settlement of the dispute with the anthracite coal miners, official details of which will be forthcoming next week. Another encouraging influence was the progress toward an amicable conclusion in the controversy between the Eastern railway managers and their engineers.

The financial community was not disposed to pay much attention to politics and professed to see general betterment in industrial and commercial conditions, albeit crop prospects were in some doubt.

There was marked relaxation in money for call and all periods, and renewal of loans to Europe bespoke increasing business here.

JUDGE SAM HOO DISCOVERS FAME

Shortall Comes Into Title He Never Knew That He Possessed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—If a stranger in the city were to hear the name of "Sam Hoo" as applied to a police magistrate, he would be certain that Sam Farmland was a skin-and-a-comopolitan nature, as to have a Chinese on the bench. Especially would this be the case if, throughout the Oriental quarter, the residents referred affectionately to Judge Sam Hoo and spoke of him in terms of great pride and admiration.

There is a "Sam Hoo" he is revered by the Chinese, but he was unacquainted with either fact himself until he stepped into a bazaar on Grant Avenue last night. The jurist was none other than Judge Shortall, whose name had been omitted from the list of judges in the Police Court and the mystery was thus explained.

COMMISSIONS ISSUED TO MILITIA OFFICERS

SACRAMENTO, April 27.—Commissions were issued yesterday from Governor Johnson's office for the following National Guard officers:

Albert E. Kennedy, 4th or San Francisco, as first lieutenant on the staff of the Fifth Infantry, ranking as battalion adjutant; Jasse C. Bowden of Oakland, as first lieutenant on the staff of the Fifth Infantry, ranking as battalion officer; Roy V. Knopf of Petaluma, as first Lieutenant of Company K, Fifth Infantry, and Madison F. Owens of Whittier, as colonel and judge advocate-general of the California National Guard, succeeding Colonel Pippy, who resigned last week.

SOCIALIST EDITOR TO ESCAPE TRIAL

PETALUMA, April 27.—The case of criminal libel preferred recently against William Boyd, the editor of the Leader, the Socialist publication, will not come to trial, as C. B. Allison, who was the prosecutor's witness, and the Socialist editor have come to an agreement regarding the article which was published in the Leader and which was anathema to Allison will be privately withdrawn. The Socialist editor declares he was misinformed on the subject on which he wrote.
